Hitler Will Stay.
Old Supply and Demand.
Business Comes First.
Words Hard to Spell.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GERMANY'S chancellor, Hitler, denies that he will leave the Catholic church to become a Protestant. It had been suggested that he would make himself head of German Protestants a "summus episcopus" or "head bishop," which is the title formerly borne by the kaisers.

However, as Hitler's government has forbidden all Catholic societies and promises to destroy the powerful Centrist Catholic party in Parliament, the Vatican may have something to say about Hitler remaining a Catholic. He cannot remain Catholic if the Pope forbids it.

Many children destined to be useful and great are extremely weak in infancy. The brain of an infant, under normal conditions, takes up the greater part of the child's blood supply. Where the brain is unusually large, the rest of the body is apt to be poorly supplied with blood, causing weakness in babyhood.

Any German professor could supply Mr. Hitler with a long list of great men who once were delicate babies, and WELL "worth bothering with."

THE OLD LAW of supply and demand still works. Beginning Saturday, thanks to the common sense of Postmaster General Farley, local postage, on letters for delivery in cities where they are mailed, was reduced from three to two cents.

Supply and demand had shown that in congested population letters can be delivered for less than three cents by messenger. Banks and other business houses were saving money, delivering notices of various kinds direct.

THE BRITISH are business men first of all, and Russia seems to turn in that direction. Russia has released two British engineers locked up for sabotage after one of the English prisoners had confessed. The British prime minister and Soviet government representatives are having friendly talks, and the two countries will resume "business as usual."

Lord Beaverbrook, a Canadian, who owns the London Express and knows the British, says nothing will ever keep Britain from trading with Russia as long as Russia is able to buy.

"Why," says he, "we trade with cannibals."

A BUSINESS expert says the words most often spelled incorrectly by business men's secretaries and others are the following:

"Procedure, lose, benefited, accommodate, adviser, occurrence, supersede, principal, affect."

Frequent mistakes are one "m" in accommodate; two "t's" in benefited; occurrence spelled with an "a"; supersede, spelled with a "c" in place of the second "s." Miss Hakes, the expert, says there are harder words but they are looked up in the dictionary. In the average business office the words mentioned would be misspelled at least half the time. It might interst you to try it.

DR. SCHACHT, head of the Reichsbank, says Germany can't continue paying unless we stop letting the dollar drop.

How can we stop the dropping? The drop is in Europe, not here. In America the dollar is worth a dollar.

Also why does a cheaper dollar make it more difficult for Germany to pay, since she owes us dollars? If she can get dollars more cheaply, can she not pay more easily?

European countries remind you of the doormouse whose watch wouldn't run. Although he had put the best butter in it "nothing seems to please it," said he.

TWENTY-EIGHT young men were punished, fined or jailed, for bathing with nothing on above the waist. Magistrate Hirschfield said:

"I am for decency. Males who wear only trunks or females who let down their shoulder straps should be arrested."

Some fat men, wearing nothing above the waist, are pitifully ugly, but it is not easy to find indecency in such exposure. Is a man working, his bronzed body bare from the waist up, "indecent?"

SENATOR CAPPER, who lives in Kansas when he isn't working in Washington and knows about farmers, predicts that a new better business era is coming with our old and sacred "the devil take the hindmost" policy discarded.

He sees the possibility of regulating and reorganizing industry on a basis that will protect and benefit the worker.

MARY READY TO DIVORCE FAIRBANKS

Still Loves Film Hero Says 'Sweetheart Of Screen'

By TED SMITS
International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 3.—Mary Pickford will give Douglas Fairbanks a divorce if he desires one.

The famous screen actress probably will not of her own volition seek divorce, but if Fairbanks desires the dissolution of their "ideal" marriage, she will obtain the decree as quietly as possible on grounds of incompatability.

Sale of their palatial $400,000 Pickfair estate, their dream home, will be accomplished as soon as possible.

DOUG MAY LIVE ABROAD

Miss Pickford will continue to make Hollywood her home and will continue her work in pictures. Fairbanks is expected to make his future home in Europe.

Love of Miss Pickford for California and motion pictures and Fairbanks' desire to build up his friendship among the nobility of Europe contributed gradually during the past three years to the rift between Cinemaland's two most famous figures.

Heart-broken over the turn of affairs which has led to a separation likely to become permanent through divorce, Miss Pickford was in seclusion today.

A brief statement confirmed the prospective sale of Pickfair and admitted the possibility of divorce. It said:

"It is true that Pickfair is for sale and that a separation between Douglas and myself is contemplated. If there should be a divorce, the grounds will be

CRASH INJURIES KILL BOARDMAN

INDIANAPOLIS, July 3.—(AP.)—Russell Boardman, 35-year-old Boston (Mass.) sportsman and aviator, injured Saturday during the transcontinental air race, died this morning at City Hospital.

The one-time co-holder of the world's long distance non-stop flight record succumbed to injuries which included a fractured skull, a broken shoulder and a punctured lung.

Among the few persons permitted in his hospital room before death came were Mrs. Boardman, who flew here from Providence, R. I., and his brother, Earl, who came from Alburquerque, N. M.

Boardman had had many narrow escapes during a career that included motorcycle racing, speed boat piloting and trans-Atlantic flying.

The plane which figured in the fatal crash Saturday was the one in which Maj. James H. Doolittle last year established a land plane speed record of 294.88 miles an hour. Boardman planned to fly it in the national speed races this week at Los Angeles.

Russ Envoy in Tokio Escapes Assassin

TOKIO, July 3.—(INS.)—An unknown assailant, swinging a huge sword, made an unsuccessful attempt on the life of the Soviet Trade Commissioner here today.

Fire Extinguishing Liquid Kills Man

Frank Geis, 54, who by mistake drank a liquid used to extinguish fires, died today in his home at 305 Beech street, Oakmont, the Coroner reported.

Herron for 'Living Wage'

Mayor John S. Herron, declaring some contractors on city work are not paying a decent wage, today announced he has directed Public Works Director Edward G. Lang to summon all contractors on city work Wednesday morning and notify them they must pay a "living wage" in order to receive any future city business.

The Mayor said he would recommend to Council that future work be done by the city's own forces, pending the time when arrangements can be made to insure that all contractors on municipal work will pay "a living wage."

MAYOR'S STATEMENT

The Mayor's statement said:

"Last year and the year before Council did a great deal of work with the city's own forces and we paid the prevailing rate of wages at that time—55 cents an hour and 50 cents an hour, the 50 cents prevailing on the Mount Washington roadway job.

"This was done over the protest of certain organizations and some members of Council, who

RELIEF CASES 2,433 FEWER

The largest decrease in the number of relief cases in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County since the improvement started in early June is reported for the week ending June 24 by the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board.

At the end of that period there were 71,347 cases on relief, a decrease of 2,433 cases from the previous week. The peak was reached in the week ending May 27, when 75,126 cases were recorded.

The county as a whole is apparently recovering more rapidly than the city, as there was a net decline of 1,637 in the county as compared with 796 in the city.

George P. Mills, director of the Allegheny County Emergency Relief Board, has announced that the food-order system will probably be substituted for the commissary system at Tarentum between July 17 to 24.

Escort Thwarts Holdup in Park

A Negro who attempted to hold up Martin Dasdorf, 25, of 266 Dunseith street, and his companion, Betty Smith, 18, of 3461 Perrysville avenue, as they were parked in Schenley Park last night, was frightened away when Dasdorf reached in his automobile for a revolver, according to a police report.

Perfect Black Rose Grown in Germany

SANGERHAUSEN, Germany, July 3.—(AP.)—The Sangerhausen Rosarium claims to have produced a perfect black rose after years of experimenting.

The rosarium, said to be the largest in the world, has an exhibition of 400,000 roses of 900 varieties.

FINGERPRINT OF COYNE TAKEN

Senator Protests in Vain; O'Malley Posts Bond

State Senator James J. Coyne balked today at being fingerprinted as he gave $3,500 bond for trial in Federal Court on vote fraud charges.

However, he finally submitted to have the smudge marks taken, after his counsel, Oliver K. Eaton, had failed to convince First Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh the practice was illegal.

The Rev. Father Lawrence A. O'Connell, of Epiphany Catholic Church, went on the Oakland Senator's bond.

ARGUE FINGERPRINTS

After posting bond, Coyne remained in the office of the United States Clerk of Courts while Eaton argued with Marsh over the fingerprinting.

Later Coyne accompanied Eaton to the marshal's office, where the fingerprinting took place. Seven other indicted Coyne chieftains had previously submitted to this requirement.

Assistant Prosecutor Marsh told Eaton this formality is mandatory under regulations of the Attorney General's office. Fingerprinting prior to conviction has been upheld in the courts, Marsh asserted. If the defendant is acquitted the prints are returned to him.

Shortly after Coyne had left the Federal Building, Patrick J. O'Malley, Second Ward boss, the ninth and last of the Coyne lieutenants, indicted on vote cheat charges, appeared and gave bond.

COYNE'S STATEMENT

Coyne issued this statement through Attorney Eaton:

"To the public who have read the indictment returned against me by the Federal grand jury, I give assurance that the charge made against me cannot be sustained. I have every confidence in the United States court and am certain I will be fully vindicated when my case is called for trial.

"The indictment is the outgrowth of political animosities and there are no just grounds for the charges it contains. I loyally supported the Republican candidates in the late campaign but violated no law and did not ask any one to do so. This will be clearly proven in court at the proper time."

McClure to Face U. S. Fingerprinting

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—(INS.)—Those of the 95 persons indicted Thursday with State Senator John J. McClure, Delaware County Republican leader, as members of a gigantic rum ring conspiracy, who have not yet posted bond, today were given an additional period of grace until Thursday afternoon.

Marshal Walter C. Fetters denied a report that Senator McClure had been privately fingerprinted by a Chester police captain. The marshal declared Senator McClure must submit to fingerprinting in his office here.

STOCKS UP $8 IN BIG TRADING

Staples Join Jubilant Rise on Roosevelt Currency Decision

NEW YORK, July 3.—The biggest bull market of the "new deal" recovery movement took place today on the eve of Independence Day when stocks, grains and cotton rushed into new high ground under the stimulus of the strongest buying wave yet witnessed.

A declining dollar rate abroad and a constantly expanding business activity at home sent buyers into the markets for commodities and equities at practically "sellers' quotations." The dollar dropped 12½ cents against the British pound.

Gains in the stock market ranged from $2 to $8 with all groups participating in the advance. Steel common forged ahead persistently after opening at a new high above 61. Later it sold above 62. American Telephone got into a forward stride during the afternoon.

Early fireworks had centered in the farm equipment group on the reports that the R. F. C. had granted a $4,000,000 cotton loan to Russia. The "Street" read in this a possible recognition of the Soviet government in the near future with consequent opening of expansive markets for American products.

The railroad stocks were buoyant most of the day. Union Pacific skyrocketed and was followed by many other first-class rails. Rail equipment issues made further progress also, now that actual business through R. F. C. loans is coming to hand. Automobile, copper and electric stocks were bought steadily all day.

The grains started the day with an overnight jump of about three cents and added another cent and a half to this before the end of the short "Pit" session. Combined average of experts put the crop estimate the lowest in 30 years and the weather reports from the belt continuel bullish, due to damage.

Speculative enthusiasm ran high all day. Wall street was elated with the President's statement on the currency question, interpreting it as placing high importance on the maintenance of the domestic price-lifting program.

By 2 o'clock more than 5,300,000 shares of stock had passed through the market. tA one time the ticker was 10 minutes behind the trading on the floor.

COOL WEATHER FOLLOWS RAIN

Moderately cool weather prevailed today in the wake of yesterday's rainstorm that broke the intermittent heat wave lasting nearly three weeks. Wind damage was reported throughout Western Pennsylvania.

Prospects were for a clear, fairly warm Fourth of July, ideal for outdoor celebrations.

The rain yesterday totaled 1.23 inches, ending a long dry spell that had parched the ground.

Snow Falls in Kane, First Time in July

KANE, Pa., July 3.—(AP.)—A light snow fell in Kane today, a striking wintry contrast to the sizzling heat of last week. It was the first July snowfall on record.

The snow flurry accompanied a temperature drop to 40 degrees. The mercury had been hovering in the nineties all last week.

Dead Farm Hand Held Heat Victim

Heat prostration was given as the cause of the death of Frank Thompson, 60, today. Thompson was found dead in bed in the farmhouse of James Simpson, his employer, of Fern Hill.

Quake Brings Panic To Italian Town

ANCONA, Italy, July 3.—(INS.)—A strong earthquake shock rocked this region today, causing residents to rush to the streets in panic.

The tremor was felt at 2:40 a. m. No casualties nor serious damage were reported.

Storm Torn Lake Baffles Rescue Of 8 on Jetty

SANDUSKY, O., July 3.—(INS.)—Attempts to rescue a party of tourists who became stranded on a jetty in Lake Erie during a hard windstorm were renewed today after the group spent a hectic night huddled together on the wave-lashed pier.

Eight and possibly 12 persons were in the marooned party. All were believed to have survived the night, although they were in constant danger of being washed into the lake by the high waves.

The jetty, which serves as a foundation for a signal light on the far end, extends a quarter-mile out into the lake. The marooned tourists took refuge on the section near the light after the concrete walk into shore had been submerged in the sudden storm.

Unable to reach the stranded party or even send out food be-

A Modern Gulliver

When he was a youngster, Primo Carnera read the story of "Gulliver's Travels," depicting the adventures of a giant who did a lot of traveling and had many adventures, and the story gripped him intensely.

Today Carnera, one of the biggest men ever to achieve success in the boxing ring, is the heavyweight champion of the world, and he sees himself emulating the Gulliver of his boyhood dreams as he goes storming about the world.

Carnera draws the comparison interestingly in his Life Story, which begins on Wednesday in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARLEY JOLTED BY ROOSEVELT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

LONDON, July 3.—President Roosevelt called the World Economic Conference sharply to task today and reminded it of its primary duty to cure fundamental economic ills rather than dally with temporary stabilization and international exchange under pressure of France.

President Roosevelt cabled to Secretary of State Hull a statement on the American currency position which created a sensation in conference circles, owing to its sharpness and its scarcely disguised criticism of France's position, which from the outset has been that temporary stabilization of the dollar, pound and franc is a prerequisite to any agreements

'Bean Ball' Pitcher Sees Victim Die

OMAHA, July 3.—(AP.)—While the pitcher who "beaned" him sat grief-stricken at his bedside, Jess (Jake) Batterton, 19, second baseman on the Springfield Western League Baseball Club, died this morning at a hospital. He had suffered a fractured skull and a cerebral hemorrhage.

Judges Refuse to Stay Foreclosures on Homes

Judges William H. McNaugher and Samuel H. Gardner today refused to postpone 269 sheriff sales, most of them homes. Asked to do so by Attorney Henry Ellenbogen, Judge McNaugher said the court could hardly issue a blanket order on such a number of cases, but could rule on individual instances.

Ellenbogen, who also is a Congressman, said he represented the public, but Attorney Roy G. Bostwick, counsel for a mortgage holder, retorted:

"I do not think things like this should be taken for political advancement."

Bostwick said he was not opposed to a postponement and Judge McNaugher felt that none of the home owners would suffer, suggesting they could have recourse to the Home Owners' Loan Corporation set up by the government. This corporation will not function here for several weeks.

However, only a few of the sales were carried out, attorneys in most cases agreeing out of court to a postponement.

Roosevelt and Cabinet Meet on Cruiser

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 3.—(AP.)—Members of President Roosevelt's Cabinet today braved the choppy waves of Annapolis roads to bard the Cruiser Indianapolis for a special meeting with the Chief Executive.

Mr. Roosevelt was aboard the trim cruiser, which anchored about three miles from the landing dock at the Naval Academy earlier in the day.

Carrying a mass of data bearing on the national recovery program, the Cabinet members waited for more than an hour after they arrived at the academy before attempting the rough ride out to the Indianapolis.

Even then it took the persuasion of Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary to the President, to get some of the "land lubber" cabineteers aboard a sub-chaser for the trip out.

Secretary Ickes observed:

"I am willing to die for the President, but I won't get seasick for him."

But after assurances from Capt. Robert White, of the Destroyer Ellis, the Secretary of the Interior and the other doubtful officials ventured aboard the subchaser and set out.

Those who met with the President included Secretaries Roper and Ickes, chairmen of the Industrial Recovery Board and the Public Works Board, respectively; Secretaries Swanson of the Navy, Dern, of War, Wallace, of Agriculture, and Attorney General Cummings. Henry L. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was also present.

MORGAN FIRM UNRIVALLED IN FINANCE, PROBE REVEALS

VAST INTERESTS DWARF OTHER BANKERS

Kuhn-Loeb Operations Give No Formidable Competition

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The powerful private banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. stands alone as the American leader in the world of finance.

This was disclosed today when a study of statistics filed at the Senate banking inquiry dispelled the popular belief that the international banking partnership of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. constituted a formidable rival of the Morgan firm.

A comparison of the two firms' balance sheets revealed the Morgan firm as far superior in capital, assets, business, influence and profits.

KUHN-LOEB OUTCLASSED

The Morgan firm far outclassed Kuhn-Loeb annually for the last decade, at least, the records revealed. In the great boom year of 1929, the Morgan firm had four times the capital, 50 times the cash, five times the deposits and almost six times the assets of Kuhn-Loeb.

At the close of 1932, after both firms had suffered enormous losses for three successive years, the Morgans had three times the capital, 14 times the cash, more than 20 times the deposits, and 12 times the assets.

The two firms ran a close race in recent years in the flotation of securities. Their profits were almost even on this phase of the varied banking business. But the Morgan firm outclassed its only competitor in every other class of business.

MILLIONS IN PROFITS

The Morgan firm rolled up millions of dollars in profits where the Kuhn-Loeb firm was satisfied with thousands. When both firms entered the railroad world to create "iron horse" empires, the Morgans once more outclassed Kuhn-Loeb.

The Morgans financed the Alleghany Corporation, drew down tremendous profits and retained control of the railroad empire started by the Van Sweringen brothers.

The Kuhn-Loeb firm helped the Pennsylvania railroad finance the rival holding company, the Pennroad Corporation, but virtually stepped out of the picture after taking a profit of about $6,000,000.

As for influence, the Morgans held hundreds upon hundreds of directorships in railroads, banks, insurance companies and industrial corporations. They dominated the field of public utilities, where the Kuhn-Loeb firm had no interests. And they lavished favors on a wider circle of friends.

It was learned today that the government so far has found no evidences of fraud in the income tax returns of J. Pierpont Morgan and his partners.

cause of the turbulent waters, Coast Guards managed to afford the storm victims temporarily relief at daybreak. A key to the unused quarters in the lighthouse was shot out to the party by a mortar cannon, giving the victims shelter until a rescue can be effected.

The lake was still rough when the coastguards set out again today in an effort to reach the jetty. They were expected to continue the battle at intervals until able to rescue the party.

Capt. John Neuman, a veteran of lake sailing, announced he also would try to reach the victims in his 50-foot cruiser.

Twister Levels Camp Of Axmen at Gettysburg

HARRISBURG, July 3.—(AP.)—The citizens conservation camp at Gettysburg is wrecked, fields of grain are beaten into the mud and other heavy property damage lies in the wake of the summer's most terrific storm.

Roaring out of the south, a "twister" cut through Adams and neighboring counties, swept over the state capital and spent its fury toward the northeast.

Rail lines were washed out, communications were crippled, and while farmers in some sections of Eastern Pennsylvania hailed the storm as relief for dried up crops, others counted their damage in thousands of dollars.

More than a score of tents were blown down and wrecked at the civilian conservation corps camp on the Gettysburg battlefield. It was necessary to furlough the entire camp over the Fourth of July holiday.

Camp equipment was damaged. Tents on Little Roundtop and Big Roundtop were swept away like bits of paper.

Storm Sweeps Illinois, Loss $2,000,000

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP.)—A trail of torn and twisted homes and debris today marked the path of a violent windstorm that swept over a 30-mile course from Elgin, Ill., to Chicago. There were various estimates of the damage, some of them as high as $2,000,000.

Along the Fox River Valley between Elgin and St. Charles about 40 cottages were wrecked. Fifty others were unroofed. Huge trees in Chicago's suburbs Glen Ellyn, Wheaton and other localities were snapped in two like matchwood.

There were no fatalities, but approximately a score of persons were injured.

Cyclone Sweeps Over Cuban Province, 2 Die

PINAR DEL RIO, Cuba, July 3. (INS.)—A terrific cyclone swept through this city early today, killing two persons, seriously injuring six and running from 60 to 75 per cent of the great Vueltabajo tobacco crop outside the city.

The Colon River overflowed between here and Coloma, making all roads impassable and isolating Coloma. It was feared the rising waters may have resulted in many drownings in the area.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(INS.)—Craft in the vicinity of Key West, Fla., were reassured today as the United States Weather Bureau issued an advisory reporting the Caribbean hurricane had diminished in intensity.

The winds, according to the bureau, have centered northwest of Western Cuba and are moving at about 12 miles per hour.

Church Club to Hold Boat Ride Friday

The first annual boat ride of the Siena Club of St. Catherine's Church, Beechview, will be held on the steamer Washington next Friday night. There will be dancing from 8:30 until midnight, according to Chairman Fred Immekus.

Brentwood Man Beaten, Trio Fined

Edward Moore, 26, of 116 South Eighteenth street; Bernard Hamill, 37, of 27 Kosciusko way, and Leo Cunningham, 34, of 2203 Larkins way, were fined $10 each in South Side Police Court yesterday in connection with the beating and attempted robbery of Joseph Cook, 36, of 3402 Pyramid street, Brentwood, late Saturday night.

Civic Club Board Elects E. O. Tabor

Edward O. Tabor has been elected by the board of directors of the Civic Club of Allegheny County to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Dr. Ralph S. Boots. He becomes chairman of the sub-division on school study, a position formerly held by Dr. Boots.

W. C. T. U. CHIEF MAY RETIRE

MILWAUKEE, July 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ella A. Boole, president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union for the past 10 years, today expressed a desire to retire from that office in order to devote more of her time to her duties as president of the International W. C. T. U. which will hold its international convention next year at Stockholm, Sweden.

Leaders said it was likely the presidency would be offered to Mrs. Boole tomorrow. If she declines, a contest for the presidency between Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, of Des Moines, pastor and president of the Iowa Union, and Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, of New York president of the New York Union, was expected.

Colonel's Slayer Faces Sanity Test

DAYTON, O., July 3.—(AP.)—James D. Shadbolt, 53, Spanish-American War veteran, confessed slayer of Col. Vernon Roberts, chief medical officer at the National Military Home Thursday night, entered a plea of guilty to first degree when arraigned today.

Judge Mason Douglass declined to accept the plea and after a conference announced that a sanity commission to test Shadbolt's mental condition would be appointed.

Boy Flags Fire Truck, Averts Crash in Storm

CARMICHAELS, Pa., July 3 (AP.)—Thunder boomed and rolled — lightning streaked the threatening sky and a pelting rain lashed the countryside.

A bolt fired a barn on the E. Bunner dairy farm. Several Carmichaels fire trucks roared through the storm, scarce able to see the road.

Another bolt and a huge tree toppled over the highway—just around a sharp bend ahead of the trucks. Ten-year-old Keyian Hopkins saw it fall, heard the trucks coming and dashed, barefooted, out of the house.

He flagged the trucks at the bend. Firemen said he probably saved their lives and certainly averted a bad smashup.

Livestock was rescued from the dairy barns. The damage was estimated by the owner at $2,000.

U. S. PREPARING TO RECOGNIZE RUSSIA

Action Before End of This Year Held Certain

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Recognition of Soviet Russia by President Roosevelt is a virtual certainty, a source close to the President revealed today.

There is a strong possibility that some form of recognition will be extended before the end of this year, the official added.

Emphasis to Soviet recognition was given last night when Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, announced his organization would finance a loan to Russia to enable it to purchase American cotton.

The sum was not specified, but it is believed it will result in the sale of more than 50,000 bales of American cotton.

The first step toward recognition, it was said, might be a de facto, or temporary period of recognition, during which negotiations would be carried out on the problems of repudiated debts, Communist propaganda and future trade relations.

If these problems were settled satisfactorily, permanent and full recognition would follow. However, should the negotiations prove unsatisfactory, President Roosevelt could break them off without having given the Soviets the satisfaction of claiming they had been recognized fully by this government.

PALS TO BURY BOLT VICTIMS

One hundred and seventy-five comrades of the two Pittsburgh youths killed by lightning at the Pine Grove Furnace, Pa., camp of the Civilian Conservation Corps will attend the funerals here tomorrow.

Services will be held for Herman B. Chuderewicz, 20, at his home at 320 Hancock street, at 10 a. m., and for Robert O. Armstrong, 23, at 1902 East Ohio street, at 2:30 p. m.

Both boys were killed Friday night, and a third boy, Lawrence McGuire, 21, of 3520 Butler street, was seriously burned when lightning struck their camp.

The entire company at camp will come to Pittsburgh by train, paying their own way. Efforts are being made to provide transportation for them after they arrive here.

Mine Union Chieftain Prepared for Bargaining

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Assurance of early stabilization of the coal industry was given Hugh S. Johnson, industrial recovery administrator, today by the United Mine Workers of America.

The mining group told Johnson that miners in all of the country's bituminous coal districts were organized and ready to enter into collective bargaining with their employers.

Thousands of miners are joining the group, President John L. Lewis reported. The right to organize and bargain collectively, under the terms of the Industrial Recovery Act is moulding mine workers of many states into a well-knit group.

Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Missouri, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Colorado, Utah, Montana, Washington, Wyoming and New Mexico were cited by Lewis as districts in which organization among the miners was lacking heretofore.

Central Pennsylvania now is 100 per cent organized, he said, with the Pittsburgh district practically organized to the same extent. Strong organizations were reported for Westmoreland County, Uniontown and the Connellsville coke fields.

Progress also was reflected in such fully-organized districts as Illinois, Indiana, Iowa and other coal areas, Lewis said. He added:

"The United Mines Workers of American represents and speaks for the entire body of coal miners in the United States."

WAGE MEETING

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP.)—Announcement was made today that the troublesome question of minimum wages for coal miners would be threshed out at a meeting in Washington next Friday.

Telegrams were sent to several hundred coal operators over the country urging their attendance. The wage scale will be drafted into the coal industry's code under the National Industrial Recovery Act.

Gunfire Rakes Home Of Illinois Miner

ELDORADO, Ill., July 3.—(INS.)—The home of Jim Ford, a United Mine Worker employed at Peabody mine 32, was raked by gunfire early today in what authorities believe to be another flareup in the mine union warfare in progress here.

Eight bullets, one of them grazing Ford's right hand, were shot through the windows of the house from an automobile, Ford reported. Last Wednesday night a dynamite bomb shook Ford's house.

4 Murders Laid to Waxey Gordon Case

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP.)—Assistant United States Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today told Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey that four of the government's witnesses have been murdered since the income tax case against Waxey Gordon, alleged racketeer, began.

The statement of Dewey, chief assistant to United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, was made in opposing a defense motion for a bill of particulars of the indictment, which charged Gordon with evading an income taxe of $385,590.22 for the years 1930 and 1931.

Pinchot Prohibits Engraved Stationery

HARRISBURG, July 3.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today forced state departments not under his control to stop using engraved stationery by refusing to sign a contract for engraving letterheads and envelopes for the next two years.

Roosevelt Raps Conference for Failure to Act

on tariff quotas or other economic matters.

EMPHATIC NOTICE

At the same time the President served emphatic notice he is unwilling to hitch the dollar to the pound or franc in any de facto understanding.

It was declared that so far as America is concerned, domestic recovery is paramount to all else. It was also made plain that President Roosevelt intends to push internal recovery irrespective of the world conference, and if the French or the others don't like it, it is "just too bad."

President Roosevelt's statement in fact was an ultimatum to the conference to concern itself with the objectives for which it was called and to confine itself to subjects on the agenda.

The result was an electric shock for the French and a lesser shock to the British, who have been pressing for stabilization. It now remains to be seen whether the French will make good their threat to bolt the conference unless they have their way.

The whole French thesis has been that it is useless to discuss anything until the dollar is stabilized. President Roosevelt has challenged that thesis in unmistakable terms, and it has put the French in an extremely embarrassing diplomatic position.

Secretary Hull made public the President's statement without comment, only emphasizing he was acting as Secretary of State rather than head of the American delegation, thus preserving the fiction that de facto stabilization has no point in the conference.

Gold Bloc at Parley Defies Roosevelt

LONDON, July 3.—(INS.)—A statement interpreted as a "reserved defi" to President Roosevelt on the currency stabilization issue was signed this afternoon by the "gold nations" represented at the World Economic Conference.

The statement was signed by France, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Poland and Switzerland. It read:

"Convinced that maintenance of their money is essential for the economic and financial restoration of the world, for the resumption of credit and for the safeguarding of social progresses accomplished in their countries, the undersigned governments affirm formally their will to maintain the free functioning of the gold standard in their respective countries at the present gold parities and in the framework of the existing monetary laws."

"And they ask their central banks to remain in close contact with one another to give to the present declaration the maximum of efficiency."

The declaration of the gold bloc was issued from the Savoy Hotel by the French delegation on behalf of all the gold powers opposing the United States four hours after President Roosevelt's statement had been made public.

A special meeting of the British delegation was held in the House of Commons this afternoon to consider the situation arising from President Roosevelt's statement.

Bonnet, Worried, Leaves For Conference

PARIS, July 3.—(AP.)—Visibly worried as he left today for London to resume leadership of the gold bloc in the World Economic Conference, Georges Bonnet, French Finance Minister, declared that it was necessary to put an end to the present "unacceptable speculative movement."

While not referring directly to President Roosevelt's statement, the chief of the French delegation made it clear that France regards stabilization as vital for any real success in the parley.

ROOSEVELT'S MESSAGE TO PARLEY

Warns Conference Not To Be Diverted From Aims.

LONDON, July 3.—(AP.)—The text of President Roosevelt's message to the World Economic Conference today follows:

I would regard it as a catastrophe amounting to a world tragedy if the great conference of nations called to bring about a more real and permanent financial stability and a greater prosperity to the masses of all nations should in advance of any serious effort to consider these broader problems allow itself to be diverted by the proposal of purely artificial and temporary experiment affecting the monetary exchange of a few nations only.

Such action, such diversion, shows a singular lack of proportion and failure to remember the larger purposes for which the economic conference originally was called together.

ECONOMIC ERRORS

I do not relish the thought that insistence on such action should be made the excuse for continuance of the basic economic errors that underlie so much of the present world-wide depression.

The world will not long be lulled by the specious policy of achieving a temporary and probably an artificial stability in foreign exchange on the part of a few large countries only.

The sound internal economic system of a nation is a greater factor in its well-being than the price of its curency in changing terms of currencies of other nations.

It is for this reason that reduced costs of government, adequate government income, and ability to serve its government debts are all so important to ultimate stability.

So too, all fetishes of so-called international bankers are being replaced by efforts to plan national curencies with the objective of giving to those currencies a continuing purchasing power which does not greatly vary in terms of the commodities and need of modern civilization.

Let me be frank in saying that the United States of America seeks the kind of dollar which a generation hence will have the same purchasing and debt-paying power as the dollar value we hope to attain in the near future. That objective means more to the good of other nations than a fixed ratio for a month or two in terms of the pound or franc.

BROAD PURPOSE

Our broad purpose is permanent stabilization of every nation's currency. Gold or gold and silver can well continue to be a metallic reserve behind currencies but this is not the time to dissipate all reserves.

When the world works out concerted policies in the majority of nations to produce balanced budgets and living within their means then we can properly discuss a better distribution of the world's gold and silver supply to act as a reserve base of national currencies.

Restoration of world trade is an important partner both in the means and in the result. Here also temporary exchange-fixing is not the true answer. We must rather mitigate existing embargoes to make easier the exchange of products of which one nation has and the other has not.

The conference was called to better and perhaps to cure fundamental economic ills. It must not be diverted from that effort.

EVICTION MOB BRINGS POLICE

A yelling throng of men, women and children brought more than a score of police to the aid of deputy sheriffs who were getting "the raspberry" while evicting a family at 5261 Dyke street, Glenwood, today.

A woman and four men were arrested.

The deputies were serving an eviction writ at the home of Mrs. Thomas Dugas, 34, mother of six children. Mrs. Dugas and the children had gone to the home of a neighbor.

It was said her husband, unemployed for 16 months, now is working on a farm.

OHIOAN TO BOSS WAR ON GANGS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP.)—Joseph B. Keenan, of Cleveland, has been chosen an Assistant Attorney General to direct the Justice Department campaign against racketeering.

He was recommended by Representative Sweeney, of Ohio, and others.

While his commission has not yet been laid before the President, he has been approved for sometime by Postmaster General Farley.

Attorney General Cummings recently said that department efforts to break up gangs and end racketeering might lack spectacular action, but steady pressure would be applied.

'Agents' Arrest Widow As Head of Lottery

Two county detectives today arrested a McKeesport widow as the head of a lottery distributing tickets throughout Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania.

Detectives James O'Brien and Patrick Trainor reported they had hired themselves out as agents to Mrs. Ethel Linehart Richardson, doing business as Agnes Ward. Today they arrested her in her home at 1128 Lincoln way, McKeesport, and charged her with maintaining a lottery.

Mrs. Richardson distributed to numerous agents tickets which represented chances on a $500,000 International Sweepstakes of Panama the winners to be determined by the Cesarewitch Stakes in England October 11, the detectives reported.

42-MILE GALE KEEPS BALBO'S ARMADA GROUNDED

GENERAL'S SHIP DAMAGED IN CRASH

International News Service.

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, July 3.—Bad weather off the Iceland coast today forced postponement of the take-off of the Italian air armada for Reykjavik, Iceland, until tomorrow.

The flight to Iceland was postponed when a final weather report indicated a 42-mile gale along the Iceland coast and several fog banks between there and Northern Ireland.

Gen. Italo Balbo, leader of the flight and Italian air minister, called a halt in preparation to resume the Trans-Atlantic mass formation flight to Chicago after receiving adverse reports from Iceland. He will await later advices before making a decision on the time of the next take-off.

It was decided the armada of 24 seaplanes would remain in Londonberry today unless there is a decided improvement in conditions off the Iceland coast.

BALBOS SHIP DAMAGED

Up to the moment Gen. Balbo decided to delay his departure, preparations had gone ahead feverishly for an early take-off.

The general's own plane was damaged last night by a re-fueling boat, which bumped into it and knocked a hole in its underpart when a sudden swell rocked both craft. The boat also bumped and damaged another plane.

Both seaplanes were immediately towed to the middle of Lough Foyle, where the Armada is anchored, and repaired rapidly with the aid of flood lights. The two seaplanes were ready for flight this morning.

After receiving weather reports from his base at Iceland, Gen. Balbo expressed dissatisfaction with a depression near the coast, which, he said, might hamper the armada's progress. He expected to receive further report shortly.

MIST HIDES SUN

The weather here was none too good, and a mist hung over the region while the sun tried to burst through.

When they landed here the 24 planes had completed 1,500 miles of the 6,831-mile flight to Chicago. The distance between Londonderry and Reykjavik, Iceland, is about 930 miles.

After negotiating the leg from Orbetello to Amsterdam only to meet with tragedy in the Zuider Zee, the planes alighted here yesterday after about six hours and 12 minutes flying time. A huge crowd gave them a rousing ovation.

It had been hoped the armada could get away for Iceland yesterday afternoon, but adverse weather caused delay.

TRUCK VICTIMS' RITES HELD

A special blessing service was held in St. Basil's Roman Catholic Church, Carrick, yesterday for Russell Engel, 14, of 1600 Delrose avenue, and Charles Linz, 12, of 1534 Brownsville road, who were killed last Wednesday by a runaway truck in Library road, Castle Shannon.

Burial of both boys followed the services. Mass was said for them today in St. Basil's Church.

Unable to attend the blessing service, James Hannigan, 12, of 1640 Oakhurst street, injured in the same accident, wrote letters of condolence to the mothers of his dead companions.

6 Picnics Scheduled For County Parks

With the coming of July the picnic season is in full swing at North and South county parks. Among the outings this week at North Park are Kingsley House at Millgrove, Wednesday; East Liberty Presbyterian Church at Parish Hill and St. Margaret's Hospital Nurses Alumnae at Forest Glen, Saturday.

South Park picnics include Trinity M. E. Church, Sunset Hills, Monday; First M. E. Church, Carnegie, Woodland Crest and Sandusky Street Baptist Church, Oak Hill, Saturday.

Dr. Coakley's Essay Wins $300 Award

The Rev. Dr. Thomas F. Coakley, rector of Sacred Heart Church, has received a $300 award in a nation-wide essay contest.

Subject of the competition which attracted scholars and literary folk, was the "Oxford Movement," of which the present year is the one hundredth anniversary.

Fall From Cliff Fatal to Boy, 13

Injuries suffered when he fell from a cliff near his home resulted in the death early today in Allegheny General Hospital of Edward Dubi, 13, of 239 Forty-fourth street, Millvale, according to a coroner's report. The accident occurred several weeks ago.

Little Lya, Morgan's Lap-Squatting Midget, In Town With Circus

MISS LYA GRAF REPORTER WILLIAM PFARR

THAT KNEE-SITTING MIDGET TELLING OF KNEES SHE KNOWS

By WILLIAM PFARR

Warning to bankers:

That midget's in town!

Yes, little (and you can say that again) Lya Graf is in town with the circus and with a certain look in her eyes.

Lya is the midget who sat in Mr. Morgan's lap in Washington—the only midget ever to attain such heights.

She is a pretty small midget, about ankle high to a grasshopper. She giggles inoffensively with or without provocation, and to her native German she has added a few choice words—"Yes, yes! No, no! So! Okay!"

Little Miss Lya regrets that she couldn't be in Washington for the investigation of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., because, as she says, once a midget has sat in a big banker's lap it becomes a habit.

On close cross-examination Miss Lya admits she is slightly disappointed in Mr. Morgan. She hasn't heard from him since, and all she knows of those preferred lists is what she read in the papers.

The little lady was asked (the asking business being what it is) just which 10 laps she'd take to a—well, a desert island. To which her illuminating reply was a quick giggle and a piping:

"Yes, yes. So!"

Later she withdrew this retort.

Miss Lya cast longing eyes to the right and left as she was driven last night in Fifth avenue from Point Breeze, where the circus is playing.

She says she's interested in the Pittsburgh bankers — but they must be big bankers and their banks must be open. Even midgets don't like closed banks.

Lya is one of the attractions which came to town with Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus for a two-day stand at Penn and Fifth avenues.

The circus unloaded yesterday before thousands of Pittsburghers, who gaped at the giraffe-necked women from Burma and Dexter Fellowes, whose boisterous adjectives rather than his appearance excited admiration, he being the circus press agent.

Steward, Another Hurt in Club Fight

William Richert, 51, of the Penn Manor Apartments, St. Clair and Penn avenues, steward of the Rural Club, 507 Brushton avenue, and John Northcliffe, 45, of 407 Peebles street, Wilkinsburg, were injured in a clubhouse fight early today, according to a police report. Both are in the Pittsburgh Hospital.

FACTOR'S SON READY TO PAY KIDNAPERS

Youth Once Abducted Waits in Vain For Orders

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP.)—Jerome Factor dug deep into the paternal jeans today to scrape up $75,000 demanded for the ransom of his kidnaped father, but awaited in vain directions for the payoff.

John Factor, the barber who found speculating more lucrative, had been a captive since before dawn of last Saturday. Yesterday's anonymous telephone message received at his first wife's home has been the only communication.

A voice had instructed Jerome, the 19-year-old youth who had a chance to study kidnapers at first-hand last April when he was a prisoner eight days, to count out $75,000 in small bills and have it ready for delivery today.

WAIT FOR ORDERS

All night Jerome and G. Gale Gilbert, attorney for the missing gambler, waited in the "strategic headquarters" in a Loop hotel tower. They had made arrangements through a brokerage house to have funds ready on call today. It was understood they would offer $25,000 to buy back the millionaire, whom the British government also would like to have in custody. Factor is fighting in the Supreme Court an extradition decree that would take him back to London, his birthplace, to defend a charge that he collected $7,000,000 in the full knowledge that he had earned it by mining stock manipulations at the expense of British investors.

STRATEGY REVEALED

The strategy of Jerome and his father's attorney thus far has been public statements intended for the eyes of the kidnapers. They told of Factor's fortune being depleted, of the inability of Jerome or his mother to touch the paternal bank account, and let it be understood a quick and easy payment of a small sum might be advisable from the view of the abductors since the banks will be closed again tomorrow for the holiday.

Al Epstein, who was kidnaped with Factor and then pushed from the car a short distance away, examined photographs at the Bureau of Identification today of gangsters and suspected kidnapers from every part of the country, but failed to recognize any.

'PRINCE MIKE' OUT IN RAIN

NEW YORK, July 3.—(INS.)—"Prince Michael Romanoff" was put out into the rain today from the Federal House of Detention, where he served 90 days for perjury after turning up in New York after immigration officials thought he was in France.

"Prince Mike"—Harry F. Gerguson on police blotters—was a bit vague about what he intends to do now.

He declined to discuss reports that he had been given a movie contract and would leave immediately for Hollywood.

"Mike," who twice escaped from Ellis Island while American and European immigration officials were exchanging him like a Christmas tie, has a few suspended sentences lying around, but authorities have agreed not to bother him provided he remains "in character."

And that, they insist, is Harry Gerguson, son of a tailor, and not a member of the Russian royal family.

AMERICA SINGING JULY 4th, 1933

By EDWIN MARKHAM

"Brotherhood is the American ideal"—Theodore Roosevelt.

I hear a far-flung chorus on the air:
America is singing everywhere—
Singing the people's hope, the people's prayer—
Singing the days that have been, days to be—Singing the greater anthem of the Free:

"We are the people come
Out of old martyrdom—
Great days and dear,
When the brave BELL was heard
To thunder Freedom's word,
Till the whole planet stirred
And God drew near.

"Now in this later hour,
Let us unlock Love's power
And dare to build
A happier social fate,
Push back the bolted gate—
Molding the Comrade State
That God has willed.

"The OLD was built on birth,
Scorning the common wealth,
The common man.
Come, let us build the NEW
For all and not the few—
Come, let us dare and do
The Brother Plan.

"From Florida's green groves
To far Alaska's coves
Our footsteps ring.
From Fundy's towering wave
To San Diego's cave
One fate our souls will brave,
One paean sing.

"God show us Love's great way
And lead us, day by day,
To life's great ends.
Oh, may our new land be,
From sea to whitening sea,
One shelter of the Free,
One House of Friends."

STARVES SELF TO ESCAPE PEN

NEW YORK, July 3.—(INS.)—Arthur Palumbo starved himself until his naturally thin body could be crowded through a 7 by 12-inch ventilator shaft, and made good his escape from Westchester County Penitentiary, solely because he wanted to revenge himself against the state police sergeant who caught him.

A note, scribbled with a lead pencil on tissue paper, was found in Palumbo's vacant cell today. It was addressed to Warden Paul R. Brown, and read:

"I'm out to get Gay. I hope to get him before he gets me.—Palumbo."

Sgt. Aleln Gay, of Troop K, at Hawthorne, N. Y., was the principal state witness during Palumbo's trial and it was Gay's work which resulted in Palumbo's being sentenced to 15 years in Sing Sing when he completed his sentence of a year on a misdemeanor charge in the Westchester County ePnitentiary.

London Gayest City, Film Actresses Say

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP.)—Sally Eilers and Thelma Todd, film actresses, expressed the opinion on their return from abroad yesterday that London is the gayest city in Europe. Miss Todd said:

"I know most people won't believe it, but it's true."

South Side Woman Killed by Poison

Mrs. Mary Friend, 56, South Seventeenth street, died today in South Side Hospital after swallowing poison in her home, according to a report to the Coroner's office. Worry over a bill was responsible for her death, the report said.

ALL CITY POOLS OPEN TODAY

All city swimming pools were opened to swimmers today.

The city's merry-go-rounds in Schenley, Grandview and Riverview parks were opened yesterday. The opening was originally set for June 15, but was delayed because of the lack of funds, Park Supt. James Moore said.

VATICAN, HITLER NEAR ACCORD

VATICAN CITY, July 3.—(AP.)—Prelates said today that a concordat which had been reached between the Vatican and Germany in negotiations between Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen and Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, would remove Vatican support from the Catholic Center party in Germany and probably would result in the disappearance of the party.

The secretary of the Vice Chancellor declared, however, that it was premature to say an agreement had been reached, but that the negotiations, which were continuing, were promising.

The opinion here was that the concordat may be summed up as follows:

"The determination of Chancellor Hitler's government to eliminate the Catholic party coincides with the Vatican's desire to disinterest itself from political parties and confine the activities of Catholics to the Catholic action organization outside aany political party."

BERLIN, July 3.—(INS.)—His edict against a "second Naazi revolution" on record, Chancellor Adolf Hitler told Austrian Nazi storm troopers in a speech at Obersalzberg today:

"If you stick by us faithfully, your victory cannot be far away."

Cracker in Bottle Kills Scranton Boy

SCRANTON, Pa., July 3.—(INS.)—Death today cut short the Fourth of July celebration David Crossin, 15, of Watrous Corners, had planned.

Stabbed Youth Walks 3 Blocks to Hospital

Stabbed, he said, by an unidentified assailant, Victor Biondo, 19, of 1033 Hall street, was in St. John's Hospital with a wound under his heart, acording to a police report. Biondo walked several blocks to the hospital. The attack ocurred, police were told, at Superior and Preble avenue.

PARKS CENTERS FOR JULY 4TH FESTIVITIES

Ceremony, Pageant To Be Held at Schenley Oval

Serum to Fight Fourth Injuries Offered by City

Persons who suffer Fourth of July injuries may obtain tetanus anti-toxin tomorrow at the City Health Department offices, Dr. William W. McFarland, Health Director, announced today.

Dr. McFarland said the office, 637 City-County Building, will be open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. A charge will be made for the anti-toxin, but Dr. McFarland said persons who are unable to pay will be served without charge.

Pageantry will share honors with the hilarity of crackling fireworks tomorrow when Pittsburgh pays both merry and serious respects to Independence Day.

Mayor John S. Herron will speak at a flag ceremony, part of a pageant directed by Karl Heinrich at the bandstand in Schenley Park, in the evening.

Schenley Park oval will be the scene of one of the principal programs, the annual Independence Day Festival, to start at 10 a. m., with gymnastic exhibitions and music by the American Legion Junior Band.

CONCERTS ARRANGED

The afternoon's entertainment will begin at 2 p. m. at the bandstand on Flagstaff Hill.

Band concerts also will be given at the county parks from 3 to 5:30 p. m., at the bath house pavilion; from 5:30 to 8 p. m. at Spreading Oak Grove, both in South Park; from 3 to 5:30 p. m. at Rose Grove, Pierce Mill road, and from 5:30 to 8 p. m., at Parish Hill Grove, North Park.

Fireworks will be banned in the county parks.

CLAIRTON PROGRAM

Trees Carlisle Post, No. 166, V. F. W., will hold a social in the V. F. W. Hall tonight. A carnival and parade starting at 10 a. m. will be the contribution of the Woods Run Settlement. It will begin in Petosky street.

The eighth annual celebration at Soho Playground will be held by the Soho Community Association, starting at 11 a. m. Brentwood will celebrate with a community program in Brentwood Park.

A program of races and other events will mark a community outing of the Sixteenth Ward in old Reservoir Park, Thirtieth street and Arlington avenue, from 1 to 4 p. m.

An elaborate pageant, with marching units and 20 floats, will mark Clairton's celebration, starting at 10 a. m. from Miller street and proceeding to Clairton Park.

McGregor Makes Plea For 'Safe and Sane' Fourth

Coroner W. J. McGregor today issued an appeal for co-operation in observing a "safe and sane" Fourth. He said:

"Let us all remember that the bite of the firecracker is worse than its bark and proceed with caution in handling all fireworks. See to it that the main supply of fireworks is kept well away from the scene of action and that explosives are placed on the ground and not held in the hand.

"Above all things let us remember that death comes not so much from maiming but from tetanus or blood poisoning which may not show its symptoms until some time after the injury. Even the slightest abrasion, burn or other injury of fireworks, should be brought to the attention of a physician and given proper care."

Fireworks Injure Six In 'Fourth' Celebrations

Six persons were nursing cuts and burns today as a result of premature Fourth celebrations.

Women Drown as One Tries to Save Another

ST. ALBANS, W. Va., July 3.—(AP.)—No one is certain who was the heroine, but one woman gave up her life trying to help another yesterday.

Mrs. L. Oliver Gessel and Mrs. Glenn Norvall waited on a sand bar in Coal River while their husbands took a short canoe ride.

As they rounded a bend near the bar the men heard a scream. Returning, they did not see their wives and started a search. The bodies of the women were recovered.

There was no one close by except Mrs. Gessel's two tiny children, who could give no account of their mother's death.

Persons bathing several hundred feet away, however, said one of the women walked into the water and apparently went beyond her depth. The other went to help her and both disappeared.

Unable to reach shore after he dove from the Tenth Street Bridge, John J. Dallas, 23, of 75 Marion street, was rescued from the Monongahela River last night by Benjamin Nowak, life guard at City Beach No. 10, according to a police report.

Dallas and John Connors, 25, of 1045 Fifth avenue, dove from the bridge in the rainstorm directly into the patch of a river steamer, Nowak said.

CORRY, Pa., July 3.—(AP.)—Jewel Evans, of Sharon, owes her life to the quickness of Clifton M. Howard, manager of the Associated Gas and Electric system at Corry, who without removing his clothes plunged into Findley Lake and saved her from drowning.

PITTSBURGH PASTOR'S WIFE HEADS U. P. MISSION GROUP

SOCIETY NAMES MRS. FULTON, MRS. LYTLE

With election of trustees and directors of various boards and committees, the seventy-fifth general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church closed today.

Mrs. C. W. White, wife of the pastor of the Eleventh Church, North Side, is the new president of the Women's General Missionary Society. Mrs. William T. Lytle, wife of the Ben Avon pastor, is first vice president, and Mrs. W. P. Aikin of Omaha, Neb., is second vice president. Miss Lillie Robertson, New York, was re-elected secretary.

PAGEANT TONIGHT

The missionary society closes its convention tonight with a pageant, "Golden Grain," depicting the history of the organization, the First U. P. Church, North Side. Mrs. Fulton, the new president, wrote the pageant which consists of 13 scenes.

More than 3,000 ministers, missionaries and laymen took part in a communion service yesterday afternoon in Syria Mosque. The service was in charge of 125 elders headed by J. L. Beatty, Pittsburgh.

The final joint meeting of the convening bodies was a devotional service in the Mosque last night. The Rev. Dr. W. B. Anderson, of Philadelphia, moderator, presided. The Rev. Dr. S. E. Irvine, New Castle, led devotionals. The principal address was by the Rev. Dr. S. C. Gamble, of Butler.

MARY 'CARRYING ON' IN PUBLIC LIFE

LIEUT. TITO FALCONE — MARY PICKFORD — MAJ. ERNST UDET

MARY READY TO DIVORCE DOUG

NEXT MOVE HIS

Friends of Miss Pickford indicated the "next move is up to Douglas." If he expresses a desire for divorce, Miss Pickford will probably take steps to that end. As yet no attorney has been consulted regarding the possibility of divorce, nor has the place to seek the decree been discussed. However, it was recalled Miss Pickford divorced her first husband, Owen Moore, in Nevada.

Friends of Miss Pickford declared she is still very much in love with Douglas. She told a friend:

"I love my husband. I don't want to say there will be a divorce. Divorce from some one you love as dearly and tenderly as I have loved Douglas for 16 years is an almost unbearable thought. I don't want to hurt Douglas. I couldn't do anything to hurt him any more than I could hurt my brother or mother or anyone else I love."

HIS SON DIVORCED

The separation follows by two months the divorce obtained by Joan Crawford, glamorous movie star, from Douglas Fairbanks Jr., son of Fairbanks by his first wife. Miss Crawford filed suit in Los Angeles and obtained the decree on the grounds of incompatability.

Friends said the rift between Miss Pickford and the senior Fairbanks has been growing during the past few years. Fairbanks has spent much of his time on world tours, and basking in the highest social circles of England and Europe.

Recently, it was reported, he sent Miss Pickford a cablegram from abroad informing her that if she wished to maintain their palatial home on top of one of the hills looking down on Hollywood and Los Angeles, she must bear the expense alone.

PREFERRED NOBILITY

Fairbanks, on his occasional visits home, has brought with him his titled friends from abroad, and close friends of the family intimated he indicated by his attitude that it was with the nobility rather than with the movie set that his interests lay.

Despite this, scarcely more than a month ago, Fairbanks took an airplane to catch up with Miss Pickford's train at Albuquerque, N. M., and there apparently pledge anew his devotion to Mary.

Fairbanks has repeatedly denied he had other "heart interests."

Despite the sorrow that has come with the laying bare of the shadow that has overhung Pickfair, Miss Pickford will continue the social and civic duties that have made her a leader in the cinema capital.

TRAVEL LURES DOUG

Fairbanks has indicated he realizes that the peak of his popularity in motion pictures has passed, and his chief interest is enjoying himself with the fortune the films brought him. He has declared:

"I have enough money and I've worked all my life. Now I want to go places."

Miss Pickford has limited her production to about one picture a year. Her last film, "Secrets," was but recently released. She made "Coquette" in 1929 as her first talkie and then "Kiki."

Fairbanks was away in the South Sea Islands five months making his last picture, "Mr. Robinson Crusoe." His first talkie was "Reaching for the Moon," and was followed by "Around the World in 80 Minutes," a sort of animated travelogue, which included his hunting expedition to Indo-China.

They co-starred in one picture, "The Taming of the Shrew."

BOTH WEALTHY

Miss Pickford is rated by the county assessor as the second wealthiest person in the film colony, Charles Chaplin being first and Fairbanks third. Together the couple's holdings approximate $4,000,000.

Those entertained at Pickfair included Prince George of England; Lady Mountbatten, cousin of the Prince of Wales; the Duke of Apulia, second cousin of King Emmanuel of Italy; the Duke of Sutherland and Contessa di Frasso of Rome.

The talkies came, and other stars of silent films fell by the wayside—but not so with Douglas and Mary. The medium of sound only opened new fields to conquer.

But three years ago Doug grew tired of the Klieg lights and exacting routine of the movie studios.

Doug, it seemed, didn't care if he ever made another picture. Mary, superb actress and business woman, could never desert that flickering celluloid that had brought her fame and wealth and position.

Even in 1930 there were rumors of divorce—promptly squelched by intimates of the pair.

In 1931, Doug was shooting tigers in the Orient and Mary was alone in "Pickfair" on their anniversary, and the report of a separation flared anew.

In the past two years, the separations grew longer and the rumors more persistent, but up until today the denials had always followed each report.

Doug Dodges Reporters On Return to London

LONDON, July 3.—(INS.)—Douglas Fairbanks, veteran screen idol, whose romance with Mary Pickford has come to an end, played a game of hide and seek with a score of reporters today.

Returning to London after a week-end in the country with society friends, Fairbanks dodged all attempts to get him into conversation regarding his separation from Miss Pickford and finally went into hiding.

Emerging in public this afternoon for the first time since his return to London, he called at the nursing home operated by the Dowager Countess of Carnarvon in Portland place, where Lady Ashley, an acquaintance, is ill.

Upon entering he was rushed by reporters, but refused to say a word. He slipped out by a rear entrance and again took cover.

Screen-like Romance But For Sad Ending

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 3.—(INS.)—The love story of "Doug" and Mary reads like a Hollywood scenario—all save the unhappy ending.

The romance began more than 13 years ago, when Mary Pickford was already established as the "First Lady" of the screen, and Douglas Fairbanks was fast becoming one of the most popular heroes of the silent films.

They were married on March 31, 1920. Soon they set about building their $400,000 home,

Man Breaks Window In Home, Injured

TEACHER DIES, SIX HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Irene Long, 27, of Ardara, a North Pennington Township school teacher, was killed and six other persons injured in an automobile collision in the Lincoln highway, North Versailles Township.

Constable Leo Urbansky, of North Versailles Township, said the accident occurred when James Dudley, 19, of Irwin, in whose machine the Long girl was a passenger, crashed into the automobile of Leroy Denourie, of East Orange, N. J., while rounding a curve.

SISTER INJURED

Others injured were Mrs. Ann Denourie, 60, of East Orange, broken arm and probable fractured skull, condition serious; Helen Long, 18, sister of the dead girl; Bernice Medley, 19, of Ardara; Ruth Kline, 27, of Ardara; Dudley and Denourie.

George Reed, 27, of 124 East Eugene avenue, Homestead Park, died late last night in Homestead Hospital from a fractured skull received in an automobile accident early Saturday morning, according to a Coroner's report. Reed was injured when his car crashed into the rear of a truck in Munhall, the report said.

Anna Uhrin, 6, of 1200 Franklin street, was injured yesterday when she was struck by an automobile while crossing California avenue near Fulton street, according to a police report.

WOMEN IN SMASHUP

Four persons were injured yesterday afternoon when their automobile skidded and crashed into a pole in West Liberty avenue, according to a police report. The injured were Louis Byrd, 40, of 513 Francis street; Mrs. Harriet Slocum, 36, of 2028 Rose street; Mrs. Edward Jones, 55, of 2506 Rose street, and Miss Roxy Smith, 34, of 2139 Rose street. They were taken to Mercy Hospital.

Four Braddock women, passengers in an automobile driven by Mike Egnetz, 25, of 1437 Electric avenue, East Pittsburgh, were injured early yesterday when the automobile collided with another driven by Raymond R. Shawley, of Trafford City, at Eleventh street and Talbot avenue, Braddock, according to a police report.

The injured were Mrs. John Fedor, 38, of 508 Mills avenue; Mrs. Sue Praschak, 40, of 734 Talbot avenue; Mrs. Mary Skrehunack, 40, of 727 Talbot avenue, and Mrs. Anna Kranok, 36, of 423 Fourth street. They were treated at the Braddock General Hospital.

Mrs. Joseph Porter, of 551 Bryant street, was injured in a highway collision near Meadville, yesterday, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Her husband and daughter, riding with her en route to a camp on Canadohta Lake, were uninjured.

MANY CONTEST MENUS MADE ARTISTIC

Leading hotels and restaurants operate on the idea that the attractiveness of the printed menu or bill of fare has a psychological effect on the diner—that an artistically printed list of the foods offered to eat lend to the appetite and desire of the customer. Many of the housewives who have submitted entries in the Sun-Telegraph-Prudence Penny $100 weekly cash prize dinner menu contest have caught the spirit of this idea. Many of the menus submitted are really works of art, embellished with appropriate designs and arranged just as you would find them in a high class hotel dining room or restaurant.

It is, however, the makeup of the menu that counts in the judging—the foods furnished for the prize dinner and their balance as related to each other. The cost, of course, is another important consideration. While the artistic arrangement of the menu does not add any extra points to the score it does signify personal pride of the woman in what she is doing.

Contest No. 4 started yesterday and still offers $100 in cash prizes for the best menus submitted before Tuesday night, July 11. The same problem is involved. "Can four persons be served with a well-balanced, appetizing dinner menu at a cost not to exceed $1.50?"

The complete prize list and rules of the contest are printed on another page of today's Sun-Telegraph. Housewives may send in as many menus as they wish and if additional entry banks are wanted they can be obtained without cost at any one of these leading stores: Kroger's, Triangle, Butler's, McCann's, Donahoe's or Clover Farm.

WINNING MENUS

As suggestions to vary the dinner routine or models for those entering this week's contest, three more samples from the list of prize-winning menus in No. 2 contest are given today.

Fourteenth prize was awarded to Mrs. D. J. Coullie, of 2502 Wedgemere street, South Hills. Her menu was:

2 Democrats May Enter Mayoralty Race Here

Before the end of the week two Democratic mayoralty candidates may be in the field, one representing the organization headed by Joseph F. Guffey and County Chairman Dave L. Lawrence and the other backed by the party wing opposed to the present Roosevelt leaders.

Attorney William N. McNair, Representative John Kane and P. J. Fagan, all official of the United Mine Workers, are under consideration by the regulars, with the choice today leaning toward McNair. Fagan has been urged as a candidate who would appeal to labor.

Attorney John Henry, removed by Gov. Pinchot as a member of the Pittsburgh Registration Commission upon the request of Lawrence and Guffey, is prepared with an announcement of his candidacy, but is withholding it pending a further conference with E. Lowry Humes and Malcolm McDonald, two Democratic leaders outside the organization.

In the Republican camp there continues a lack of harmony among the forces opposing Mayor John S. Herron. Clerk of Courts S. J. Topley, County Commissioner William D. Mansfield and some other county officials who first urged Judge Frank P. Patterson to become a candidate, have transferred their allegiance to Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell.

Topley and Mansfield do not live in Pittsburgh, but both are opposed to Senator James J. Coyne, affiliated with Herron and would like to see as mayor of Pittsburgh a man who would be of some assistance to them in the next county campaign. Mackrell, if he runs, may receive some aid from ward chairmen who are a bit on the outs with the organization, but nothing along this line has yet shaped up.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

A Columnist's Sec'y Jots Down a Few Notes

NEW YORK.—Dear W. W.: Well, sir, it's about a month today since you started for California—arousing scores of other Broadwayikes to follow along . . . B'way is plenty dull in the torrid months, I know, but never did it seem as dull as it does now . . . The list of Broadway shows here now is down to a new low, the night clubs are offering the same uninspiring routines, the masters of ceremonies are using the same cracks, and items about Manhattan activities are so scarce most of the commentators are wasting their bosses' space telling readers how to do a column, or complaining about being barred from joints, and other blah . . . Everything appears to be happening out there in the Golden Gate State, where I certainly wish I were right now—instead of this stuffy office.

You tell me to keep after the crowd for stuff . . . Oh, I'm a magician now, huh? . . . Not only are they out of town, or their phones disconnected (times have been bad, you capitalist!) but the few whom I reached are a little sore. They say you don't use the stuff they perspired digging up, anyway—so the deuce with you.

When you shoot me last-minute, night-press-rate items, fevvensake also tell me what to omit . . . The wire came 10 minutes before deadline and I had to work fast . . . So I just chucked your original last paragraph and used the new stuff, which just fit . . . I hope you're convinced that the last blast you took at me before the poobic wasn't justified . . . The teletype machines can make blunders, too, you know. All right, let's skip it.

Say, when you're digging up swelegant toasts, here's one I think is sa-well; It's from the late Ambrose Bierce: "Woman, beautiful woman! Would that we could fall into her arms—without falling into her hands!" . . . There's a kick in watching the column come over the teletype from so far away . . . The kick comes wondering what the next line is going to be . . . Did you see Paul Gerard Smith's piece in Script? . . . I liked best his remarks about what certain people remind him of—the one about you reminding him of a little boy passing a graveyard and whistling in the dark fits you perfectly . . . Jimmy Cagney—the newsstand at the rear of the Times Bldg.; Wallace Beery—pickled pigs' feet a la mode, and Jimmy Durante—an untied shoe lace!

Here's one you never knew before . . . That $40,000 was once on deposit at the Harriman Bank to the credit of the Prophet Isaiah . . . This was to protect its fund from suits during the famous actors' strike of 1919 . . . Equity was depositor. The account read: "Isaiah 59:14" . . . Oh, I forgot to add that Pierre de Rohan contribs to your Death Takes a Parody Symposium . . . He says he would like to die of having lived. . . Tried to check on that Eva Leonard at the St. Moritz marrying or going to soon—Davis Chamberlain, of Des Moines, who has too much money . . . What show was she in? . . . It was at least six weeks ago when you predicted wheat might go to $1.25.

The roadhouses are no different than they've been for years . . . Same faces, same talent, same this and that . . . You've got to take them or leave them on Sunday nights. I like to go for the ride, frankly . . . You're not missing a thing . . . I was just looking at your office walls (between sentences) and discovered something I've never noticed before . . . Why on earth have you so many obituary notices pasted up? They were your friends, not enemies. What's the point?

Received the Joan Crawford column this morning—very okay . . . Have you decided when you're going to use them? . . . Hellinger says thanks very much for not answering his wire . . . Why does Norma Talmadge keep denying there's a romance between Jessel and herself? . . . In all your pictures you need a haircut . . . Better start some excitement—there were less complaints about you this week than last . . . You can tell Zasu Pitts that she needs a press agent. I overheard two people discussing her last night and one called her "Zuzu Potts" . . . Can't you see her wringing her hands helplessly?

The F. Chase Taylors (he's Col. Stoopnagle of the radio comedians) signed legal parting papers this week. She's of Rochester . . . Here's a natural—The new Roosevelt Brewery in Jersey will make White House beer . . . Father Coughlin was all set to depart for Yurrop last week, but he didn't because the President summoned him about something. And that, sir, is all. I mean all I can put in print. Your Girl Friday—but mitt luff!

Miss Bennett Piling Up Work

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, July 3. — Did anybody say that Constance Bennett was retiring? The glamorous marquise not only will star for Twentieth Century pictures next year, but she has agreed to make an extra film for RKO in her spare time.

This deal, which rates as a surprise, was reached between Connie and Merian C. Cooper even before she began the last picture under her old contract at RKO.

It's pretty well settled, incidentally, that Gilbert Roland will play opposite the star in this film. Since he already is coaching Connie in tennis and escorting her around Hollywood, they'll be spending much of their time together.

Mr. Roland

There's a story going around — you can believe it or not — that the beauteous Bennett has refused to allow the hero of her new picture, a spy story, to be a German officer. She hates those Prussian haircuts, they'll tell you—says they destroy a man's romantic appeal.

* * *

A salute also to Minta Durfee, the bride of Roscoe's youth, who stood by him so valiantly during the dark days of his trial and who, these many years later, was bowed down with genuine grief at the news of his passing.

Miss Durfee

Always unexplainable are the epidemic of death rumors that follow a tragedy involving a Hollywood celebrity. While the newsboys were crying the headlines about Arbuckle the town suddenly vibrated with whispers that Jack Gilbert had dropped dead. A quick telephone call killed the rumor. Laughingly, Jack said to me:

"If I breathe on a glass and you get fog, don't let them bury me."

Still it must be unsettling to a man to have such an experience.

Talent Quest Here

Later this month there will be tests of Pittsburgh young women and men who aspire to be movie players. Paramount will select 30 young women and the same number of young men, in a national test. Those finally selected by that company will receive a minimum salary of $50 a week for five weeks, transportation and hotel accommodations in the movie capital.

Local tests will begin with preliminaries in each neighborhood Warner theater July 13, 15, 17 and 18, entrants to be aged 17 to 30. Two young men and two young women will be selected as finalists from each theater. They will assemble in the Stanley the evening of July 20 for the final visual test. The four survivors, two of each sex, will be given a screen test in the same theater the following evening. The films of these screen tests will be sent to Hollywood, the final decision on this and similar tests from all parts of the country to rest with Paramount.

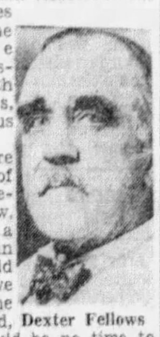
Ringling-Barnum & Bailey Circus Clowns 'n All, Showing Here

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

That most entrancing, captivating, alluring, fascinating and attractive of all entertainments, the circus, is in town. Right here a little explanation is necessary. We wrote "the" circus. There are circuses and circuses, but "the" circus, by tradition and example, is the Barnum & Bailey-Ringling Brothers Combined Circus, showing in East Liberty today, and remaining to show again tomorrow. All the adjectives beginning the paragraph are the result of association with Dexter Fellows, dean of circus press agents.



Dexter Fellows

You see, there being no issue of the Sun-Telegraph tomorrow, the day when a review of such an attraction would be printed, we had to get one out today. And, since there would be no time to go and see the circus and print the result in time for today's readers, we had the happy thought of a synthetic review. So we telephoned to Mr. Fellows and asked him to bring in a program. What do you think? He didn't have one! But he told us about it. And all those adjectives above—and some more—are still ringing in my ears.

Right here let me tell you that Mr. Fellows, whose favorite act is trained seals, has never been caught uttering an untruth. This for the reliability of the adjectives and other matter touched upon in this review. Any doubtings you may have heard about circus press agents and their wonderful wordage don't apply to Mr. Fellows.

So when he raved about the spectacular feature of the show, the Delhi Durbar, with its gorgeous pagentry, color and glittering recreation of the brilliance of India's demonstration to the glory of Queen Victoria as the empress of India, we were quite thrilled. This is the hippodrome attraction that opens the show and presents bands, all of the elephants of the circus and hundreds of horses and richly dressed men and women.

The oddity of the show, the giraffe-necked group of humans from Upper Burmah, he said, is proving a popular feature. They are both a side-show and big-show attraction. For comparison they originally were shown in the menagerie alongside of the giraffes, but the giraffs became listless and moped. Now, now, you MUST believe Mr. Fellows! Remember, he doesn't say the animals were jealous—merely that they moped.

Another sideshow attraction is a midget group including Lya Graf, the little lady who became a Morgan knee-sitter in Washington recently. And Mr. Fellows says that was not a press-agent stunt, but a "natural," if you know what that means.

But let's get back to the big show before we miss the Alfredo Codona troupe of high aerial performers. Alfredo is the boy who does the triple somersault, a daring exhibition. Not new, but always thrilling.

Then, too, there's the madcap horsewoman, Dorothy Herbert, whose horse you think will tumble over upon her, as it rears in the air and she bends backward.

And Con Colleano, the amazing wire performer; and Luceta Leers, outstanding among the trapeze artists; and Zacchinni, the human projectile fired from a cannon across the arena into a net; and the clowns with a lot that is new, and some that is old, including the circus "fire department," always a laugh-getter, despite its age.

We wish we could remember more of what Mr. Fellows said, but the adjectives left us in a sort of daze.

Bills Change Tuesday

Beginning tomorrow "Peg O' My Heart," starring Marion Davies, will be seen on the screen of the Enright for four days. This is a movie version of the famous play that was a country-wide success as a starring vehicle for Laurette Taylor.

* * *

The Fulton will introduce a revival of the Paul Whiteman musical extravaganza, "The Jazz King," which will open as the Fourth of July attraction. Besides Whiteman and his band, the cast includes Bing Crosby, Jeanette Loff and Jeanie Lang.

Fourth at West View Lively Bill

There will be dancing to the music of Charlie McCormick's Orchestra, both afternoon and evening, July 4. Wednesday evening the pajama parade will be held. Miss Inez Arleene, girl aerialist member of the Fearless Falcons, appearing in the park will be one of the judges. The Fourth program will include special musical programs by Charles Pasetti and his Amerita Band afternoon and evening, performances by the Fearless Falcons, and a fireworks show as a climax to the day's celebration.

Story Without a Moral.

IT WOULD make, I think, a good story for a magazine. I have neither the time nor the inclination, however, to fool around with it. Accordingly, if any of you would-be authors would like a rejection slip from a magazine, you can take this yarn and rewrite it to suit yourself.

'Way down yonder in New Orleans Mr. Smith first saw the light of day. Scion of a proud old family, he graduated from high school and college with rare honors. He was studying law—and there was little doubt of his success. He had everything in his favor.

Within a few years after hanging out his shingle, Mr. Smith had lived up to everyone's expectations. He was already rated as an excellent attorney and he had twice moved into larger offices.

Then came the gal. Tough word, that—gal.

Mr. Smith wanted a home and love and babies. The gal wanted love, all right. But she wasn't particular about the home and she certainly had no yen for babies. So, after a week or two of alleged happiness, the romance became just one of those things. The gal went after another man and Mr. Smith went into the dumps.

They had no idea how long he would be in that sanitarium. Two or three of them, in fact, were fairly certain that he would die there. But he fooled them.

After eight months he was out again. He had apparently been cured of the liquor habit—but he was a changed man. He had absolutely no confidence in himself.

He tried again to practice in New Orleans, but it was no go. He had lost his nerve completely. He could make up his mind to nothing. He was afraid to tackle the simplest kind of a case.

His friends held a meeting and came to a decision. Mr Smith needed a change of scenery. How about New York?

Thus, Mr. Smith came to our town a year or so ago and became a New Yorker . . .

Mr. Smith's job called for $40 a week. He was a clerk—and a very lowly one at that. He was soon the butt of every office joke.

He needed that $40 a week and he needed it badly. He had wound up in the gutter at New Orleans and he had a horror of the same thing in New York.

His firm, he knew, was practicing just within the law. The two gentleman at the head of the concern were, to all intents and purposes, very moral and upright citizens.

But, deep in their hearts, they were absolute phonies. They knew very little about law and they recognized in Mr. Smith more knowledge than both of them had together. As if they were doing him a favor, they asked his opinion on certain cases. And they quoted his replies to clients as though they, themselves, had considered the matters carefully.

For some 10 months or so this went on. For his $40 a week Mr. Smith was taunted and kidded and laughed at on all sides. The man who had once had one of the brightest futures in the South was little more than an office joke in the North. The more he thought, the more he brooded. And the more he brooded, the more violent became his longing for liquor.

He entered the office one morning with his mind made up. He was going to ask for a raise. After all, hadn't the bosses asked him many questions. Hadn't he given them opinions that they, themselves, had quoted?

He walked into the office that was occupied by one of the partners. And he stammered out the fact that he thought he reserved a raise. The boss wheeled around.

"Smith," he said harshly, "I think you have an unparalleled nerve. You asking for more money!

"I want you to understand something. You're more or less an object of charity around here.

"Instead of asking for more money, you ought to be down on your knees and thanking me for my generosity. Now, get out of here."

Mr. Smith backed out of the office. He didn't go back to his desk, however. He went around the corner and took his first drink in a long time. Within an hour he was as drunk as a fool . . .

Shortly after 3 o'clock that afternoon Mr. Smith staggered into his office. But it was a different Mr. Smith. He seized the sarcastic office boy by the chin and hurled him against a wall. He picked up a telephone book and tossed it at the phone girl's head. And he staggered into the boss' office and slammed the door.

"Listen, you," he muttered. "I'm no dog. You get me? You talked to me thish mornin' like I was a dirty dog, but I'm not. See? You're the one that'sh dirty dog.

"I'm drunk, mister. I know it. I'm blazin' drunk. But you're the one that got me thish way. And you're gonna listen to me."

The distinguished attorney attempted to rise. A shove from Mr. Smith sent him spinning half way across the room.

"You're no lawyer, mister. I know more in my little finger than you and your partner know altogether. And you treat me like a dog. You! Where'd you get that stuff from?"

Pretty soon the superintendent came in. And the partner. And four or five other men. They did not want to call the police. It wouldn't have been good policy.

And this, I suppose, should be the end of the story, but it so happens that it's not. That drunk did not carry Mr. Smith to the Bellevue alcoholic ward. It gave him his courage back instead. A day later, for the first time since he arrived in New York, he looked around for a better job. And he found one.

He's earning $75 a week now. And he's happy.

-With-

Patricia Pitt

July this year will be distinguished by its many engagements, I have a notion. At least the month, only in its third day, has been lavish with news of betrothals. Today brings another of interest.

Edwin Nevin Prugh, Jr., of Sprague avenue, Bellevue, announces the engagement of his sister, Frances Charlotte Prugh, to J. Kenneth Johnson, of Dayton, O., son of the Rev. and Mrs. A. Fulton Johnson, of Mitchell, S. D.

The wedding will take place Saturday afternoon, August 5, at 4:30 o'clock in the Prugh home.

* * *

The smart set will have to change its plans for the Fourth, because the prospect of cool weather tomorrow will spoil the swimming and outdoor sports. Of course hardy golfers will be out on the course.

Change Plans

There'll probably be a return during the respite from heat to much dancing and bridge and conversation around a log fire.

Mrs. James G. Pontefract, of Bagatelle, Shields, has as her house guests her son-in-law and daughter, the William S. Charnleys, of Pasadena, and their family.

The junior John Bonner Semples, who have been visiting Mr. Semple's parents, the John Bonner Semples, of Sewickley, sailed Saturday on the Volendam for a Mediterranean cruise.

Mrs. Roosevelt Gets First Volume of 'Angels, Amazons'

With a dedicatory message from the author and from Miss Lena Madesin Phillips, president of the National Council of Women, the first copy of Inez Haynes Irwin's book, "Angels and Amazons: One Hundred Years of American Women," has been sent to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The author, who has chronicled the courageous battle of women in many fields to lift themselves from chattels to citizens, wrote:

"For Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose varied interests and vivid sympathy will take her every step of the way with these fighting women."

Miss Phillips' message read:

"The National Council of Women presents with deep satisfaction this first copy of its history of American women to Eleanor Roosevelt, who by her wisdom, her courage and her sympathetic understanding is in her own right First Lady of the Land."

A second copy of "Angels and Amazons," also appropriately inscribed, was sent to Amelia Earhart, because Mrs. Irwin has closed her history of women's struggles and triumphs for the past hundred years with a pen sketch of "the girl eaglet, winging her impetuous way over the vasty deeps" in an adventure that is "a supreme proof of women's equality in nerve, mechanical skill and courage."

An audience of the 1840's thrilled, amused, or shocked, according to temperament, at the daring spectacle of girls conjugating a Latin verb in a public examination; Mary Lyon taking a school teacher's job at 75 cents a week, and working indefatigably to get money enough to launch her seminary for girls so that they, as well as men, might have the right to education.

Harriot Hunt, attempting to enroll in the school of medicine at Harvard in 1847, and evoking such a storm of protest that the students held a mass meeting and voted for her exclusion.

Much of the impetus for women's success in the early part of the Twentieth Century the author attributes to the International Congress of Women in Chicago in 1893, in which the National Council of Women, sponsor of the Irwin book, was the moving spirit. "After that Congress," the author writes, "even backwoods cities knew that women's clubs existed and that our society took them no longer in a spirit of ridicule, but with great seriousness. Organizations of women passed from a tendency to a fashion and on to a rage."

Mrs. Irwin's book, said to be the most comprehensive history of the woman movement yet published in this country, will be displayed by the council in its exhibit at the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition, because it so appropriately parallels the theme of "A Century of Progress."

Court Chartiers C. D. A. To Give Theater Party

Court Chartiers, Catholic Daughers of America, will hold a theater party at The Williows Thursday evening to attend the State Guild's presentation of "Honeymoon."

After the play, the organization will hold a dance in the summer room, and will have as guests the members of the cast.

Ann E. Heitzenroder Married to T. T. Walker

Mrs. August Heitzenroder, of Perrysville avenue, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Ann E. Heitzenroder, to T. Torrance Walker, son of Mrs. Jessie J. Walker, of Sheraden, on Wednesday, June 21.

The ceremony took place in Beaver, Pa., with the Rev. Homer N. Whitfield officiating.

John G. Wagners Feted On 25th Anniversary

The church council of St. Peter's Evangelical Lutheran Church entertained Saturday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Wagner, of Howard street, North Side, who celebrated their silver wedding anniversary. Mr. Wagner is president of the church council.

Miss Jeanne Shoemaker Leaves for Hollywood

Overseas Service League Opens Convention Here

Business will occupy the morning and early afternoon sessions of the Women's Overseas Service League in annual convention at the Hotel Schenley today. At 3:45 buses will leave convention headquarters for a drive through the Fox Chapel district, with tea at the Field Club, thence down to Sewickley, where dinner will be served at the Edgeworth Club. The return trip will be made after sundown and with a detour up Mt. Washington boulevard.

Service reports will fill an interesting morning and at luncheon Judge Sarah Soffel and Dr. Henry Rolf Brown will speak. The afternoon is left open for choice of recreation and the evening will be given over to unit reunions.

Maude Brechin Honored At Party Before Sailing

Miss Maude M. Brechin, of Traymore avenue, Wilkinsburg, was honor guest at a bridge party Wednesday evening given by Miss Eleanor and Miss Susan Jamison of East End avenue.

Miss Brechin sailed Saturday from New York to spend the summer in England and Scotland.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Sgarlata Mark 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Angelo Sgarlata, of Johnstown, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Thursday in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Salvatore Battaglia, of South Millvale avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Sgarlata will return soon to Johnstown.

Burgettstown Girl Weds At Ceremony in Church

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Povero, of Burgettstown, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Povero, to John Zadro, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zadro, of Bridgeville, which was solemnized at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning in Our Lady of Lourdes Church. Officiating was the Rev. W. J. McCashin, at a nuptial high mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white pebble crepe having a long-sleeved jacket. Her veil of white tulle and lace was finished with a cap of tulle fastened with a chin strap and embroidered with seed pearls. She carried white bridal roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary Povero, as her sister's maid of honor, wore yellow organdie with a white crepe turban and carried Talisman roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Ann Duffy, who wore orchid organdie, and Miss Edith Colussy, who wore green organdie. Both had turbans of white crepe and carried roses. Lee Calavo was best man and ushers were George Velony and William Philipps.

The reception was held for the families in the Povero home. Mr. and Mrs. Zadro, Jr., will not leave for a wedding trip until early fall. They will reside temporarily in Bridgeville.

Mrs. Edward S. Munford Visits Daughter Here

Mrs. Edward S. Munford, of Washington, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Joseph W. Mullally, of Walnut street.

Beaver Falls Club To Begin 30th Year Oct. 6

President's Day on October 6 at the Beaver Valley Country Club will inaugurate the thirtieth year for the Beaver Falls Outlook Club, the new year books of which have been put into the mail. For this opening occasion the past presidents will be hostesses. The club gets into its stride at the second October meeting with its annual State Federation day when the events of the state convention are retailed by the delegates.

After that there's a sealed program and a Thanksgiving program, then on December 1, Mrs. William Anderson is going to talk on parliamentary procedure. "The Bible in Song and Story" is the subject scheduled for December 15.

The new year will begin with a review of Sarah Joseph Hale's Godey's Lady's Book, by Mrs. Arthur Savage; Dr. John Coleman will give a current events talk, and Miss Josephine Richards a travel talk at subsequent meetings, and Dr. C. J. Williamson is announced as speaker for the February dinner.

Conservation and parks and "Great Women of These United States" will be considered in March, while in April one program will be on "Art in the Community" and the other will consist of an address by Dr. Ruth A. Firor. The music and drama committees will give their programs in May, closing the year.

Mrs. Jesse E. Martsolf is president; Mrs. Clarence S. Brock and Miss Mary V. McHattie, are vice presidents; Mrs. Edward H. Perrott is recording, and Mrs. Edward W. Walcott, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. H. B. Plummer, treasurer.

Many Club Women Aid In Jewish Campaign

Many Pittsburgh club women are assisting in the Western Pennsylvania drive for the relief of Jews in Germany. The campaign opens July 16, with the national quota set at $2,000,000, the funds to be used to feed, clothe and rehabilitate the Jews in Germany and to transport out of the country those who desire it.

Morris Neaman, chairman of the Western Pennsylvania Committee, will meet the representatives from 25 counties at a regional conference in the Concordia Club July 16.

20,000 Interviewed By Service Bureau

More than 20,000 persons have been interviewed by the personal service bureau of the Salvation Army's women's division since it began its work in March of last year. Of these, 3,813 have been given employment and 377 have been furnished with room and board.

Committees Announced For Wilkinsburg Club

The executive board of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club is always headed by the first vice president and always includes the other officers and committee heads. Mrs. Harry C. Nagel is its chairman this year.

Serving with her are the president, Mrs. Frank H. Davis; the second vice president, Mrs. W. B. Covil, Jr.; recording secretary, Mrs. Carl Miller; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas D. Edgar; assistant secretary, Mrs. George Taylor, Jr.; the treasurer, Mrs. J. C. McQuiston, and Mrs. W. D. Sleppy, Mrs. Albert J. Dawson, Mrs. George Reinsmith, Mrs. E. H. Wells, Mrs. S. H. McKee, Mrs. W. G. Reineman, Mrs. R. A. Getter, Mrs. A. L. Schieber and Miss Elizabeth Gilmore.

The four department heads, Mrs. W. C. Graham, drama; Mrs. C. R. Beall, educational; Mrs. H. W. Keller, fine arts, and Mrs. R. C. Beerbower, Jr., are also executive members.

The club's American home committee is headed by Mrs. Sleppy, who has as her aides, Mrs. George Rankin, Mrs. C. F. Sperling, Mrs. W. D. Hanlon and Mrs. Robert E. Beaton. Mrs. Dawson, as head of the civic and international relations committee, has Mrs. S. G. Dunning and Mrs. W. G. Marshall as her committee members and on the clubhouse committee are Mrs. Reinsmith, as chairman, and Mrs. Homer Smith, Mrs. Boyd Mills, Mrs. H. M. Harper, Mrs. Leroy Cooper and Mrs. W. M. Oetting.

The finance committee is made up of Mrs. Wells, Mrs. W. F. Bremner and Mrs. D. G. Black. With Mrs. McKee as chairman, the membership committee includes Mrs. S. R. Wills, Mrs. E. S. McClelland, Mrs. Dean Harvey and Mrs. James Wilson. The philanthropic committee, of which Mrs. Reineman is chairman, numbers Mrs. Arthur Textor, Mrs. Harriet Bambrick, Mrs. Fred Brinker, Mrs. Harry L. Jones, Mrs. Laurence Bell and Mrs. S. O. Kegley in its personnel.

Mrs. Getter, Mrs. O. G. Leichliter and Mrs. R. T. Klinzing are the press committee; the program committee includes Mrs. Schieber, Mrs. J. I. McLallen, Mrs. F. F. Rohrer, Miss Sara Carpenter, Mrs. F. H. Carson, Mrs. C. Howard Marcy and Mrs. W. H. Larimer, and on the social committee are Miss Gilmore, Mrs. Howard K. Jones, Mrs. H. H. McConnell, Mrs. James E. Hindman and Mrs. A. C. Young.

WHITE ORGANDY PROVES ITS POPULARITY AT GARDEN PARTIES

FANCY YOURSELF, if you are quite young, or not many years older, in white organdy dance clothes. Could any fashion be more feminine, and, at the same time so alluring? It's good for all but the most formal summer evenings—especially when the heat drives you, escort to telephone you "not to dress!" Even though he shows up in white flannels or one of those very British mess jacket affairs, instead of the business suit he warned you he'd wear—you've nothing to fear.

* * *

MOST EXCITING of all is the embroidered organdy at the left—with a bell-like silhouette, giving the effect of a morning-glory turned upside down! The enormous skirt, edged in a double row of fluted ruffles to match those at the neck and shoulders, is reminiscent of the old-fashioned sweeper skirt. The demure, tight-fitting waist closes down the front in a long row of rhinestone buttons. Flashes of blood red ribbon are très chic, a bold note. Shine in this frivolous gown at a garden party or dine in it on a starlit roof. Navy shoes peep under the ruffles and high navy organdy gloves should be carried.

* * *

NEXT TO her the ingenue wears another white organdy, this time a suit with faint leaf-like all-over embroidered design, a material that has all the airy freshness of fleecy clouds that dash across bright blue skies. Under the concealing little collared bolero jacket with puffed sleeves is a perfectly good looking evening gown with low decolletage.

* * *

THE NEWEST and most charming evening jewelry accessory is an Alice-in-Wonderland bandeaux of crystal field flowers, in white and primary colors—red, blue and yellow. Imagine this snood nestling in soft blonde hair, and then visualize the bright matching brooch against pure white organdy! There's a bracelet to match. We include them among the bright ideas of the season they're by a new Austrian-American designer whose jewelry captured the country by storm.

Westmoreland's Club Outing Draws 1,000

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

According to Mrs. J. W. Freeman, chairman of the Westmoreland County Federation of Women's Clubs outing at Idlewild Park on Saturday, more than 1,000 persons were in attendance. The majority of guests (some were from other counties) went to the park in time for luncheon, but the Derry and the Latrobe Business and Professional Women's Clubs had a joint dinner meeting.

A short program in the dance hall preceded the Federation's dedication of two American elms, one to Mrs. Franklin Delano Roosevelt and the other to Mrs. Samuel N. Warden, retiring president of the Federation. Mrs. John M. Phillips, first vice president of the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women, and Mrs. James G. Chalfant, district president, both spoke briefly. Mrs. Chalfant stressing constructive use of leisure time, concentration of effort and the improtance of play.

With club women lies the salvation of the country, Mrs. Phillips declared as she asked for renewed sympathy and understanding for the men of the nation and for a fully awakened civic consciousness on the part of the women. Under the direction of Mrs. George Steele, of Latrobe, the Derry, Latrobe and Ligonier chorals sang. Miss Sara Horner, of Mt. Pleasant, offered a group of solos, appropriately choosing "Hills of Home" for one number. She was accompanied by Miss Violet McCloy.

During the tree dedication ceremony, the Derry Girl Scouts sang, Mrs. Frederick King spoke, Mrs. W. Riley Alter made the invocation, Mrs. Eleanor McKelvy gave Joyce Kilmer's "Trees" and Herman Stoner, of Mt. Pleasant High School, played a flute solo. Later in the afternoon Westmoreland County's prize-winning band from Ramsay High School played several numbers and played exceedingly well.

Mrs. R. V. Hartman succeeds Mrs. Warden as president of the federation.

P. T. A. Council to Have Booth in Park Tomorrow

City Council Parent-Teacher Association, participating tomorrow in the All-Nations Fourth of July celebration in Schenley Park, will have a booth at which refreshments will be sold by the recreation committee under Mrs. P. B. Digby's chairmanship.

In the evening a group from the association, headed by Mrs. W. E. Brosius, president, will take part in the pageant.

Reservations Being Taken for D. A. R. Tea

Mrs. Cooke Bausman, of Woodwell street, is accepting reservations for the tea which Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will give Wednesday at the College Club in honor of the Women's Overseas Service League, which is holding its annual convention in Pittsburgh this week. The tea is to take place from 4 until 6 o'clock at the College Club, North Craig street.

'Old Timer' Thinks Men Pick Wives Carelessly

What sort of a girl, with what kind of a record, does the average modern man want to marry?

Does he want a girl who has kept herself "choosey" and clean—whose name is spotless?

Or does he demand a "good fellow," even though she has learned her good fellowship through experiences that are best forgotten?

And suppose the man's own past life hasn't been free from smudges—

Has he then a right to expect an immaculate wife?

Or does he deserve a girl who has been no better than he has been himself?

In Grandma's Day these would have been considered foolish questions, because they could have had only one horrified answer. The well-known Double Standard saw to that. But how about it now? Old Timer wants to know.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I wonder if you could answer a few questions for an old fellow who is somewhat puzzled by some of our modern ways?

I refer to some of the moral ways of our present generation. They seem to me—well, a little strange, to say the least; and I am seriously wondering what it is all coming to.

Particularly, I am somewhat puzzled by the apparent carelessness of a good many of our modern men about the sort of women they marry.

When I was a young buck—I am 75 now—no matter how fast a young fellow may have stepped himself, he regarded his founding of a home as something sacred. When he married, he expected to found that home on the rock of a woman's spotless reputation and blameless life.

SEEM DIFFERENT NOW

He felt that he owed it to his children. He expected the mother of those children to be above reproach—a woman of high ideals who would teach them the right way of life. He felt that only such a good woman could raise them right, and have the right sort of influence on them.

Then, too, he looked up to her superior goodness. She was the beacon light of his life.

But today young men seem to run around and drink and carouse with girls that a decent man, fifty years ago, wouldn't have been seen talking to on the street. They drink and smoke with them. They go on "wild parties" with them—and then marry them!

I may be wrong. You hear a great deal about how much better things are now than they were in the "old days;" but I can't help wondering what this world is coming to when men are so careless of the morals of the girls they marry and make the mothers of their children.

I still think that a girl who has been good and clean is the only sort of girl who is fit to be a wife and mother. What do you think? I wonder, too, what some of the other men think. I'd like to hear from them.

OLD TIMER.

THE DOUBLE STANDARD

You will, brother! You will! And probably with whoops of enthusiasm, from males who want to indulge in all this world's various brands of cussedness—and then settle down with some sweet soul who they know will never cheat on them.

The Double Standard was the greatest alibi in the world for a gentleman with ideas like that; and there are still plenty of them running loose!

But, in spite of them, the Double Standard has received some lusty wallops, and they have not been dealt by sentimentalists or man-hating feminists. Science, which favors neither sex, has shown up the Double Standard for the vicious thing it is.

We now know, and have always known, that it is a tragic thing for a baby to have a bad mother——.

But we also know that which we didn't know before—that it's just as bad for it to have a bad father. The wages of wild oats are disease and death, whether they be sowed by the man or the woman.

So there's the truth about your Double Standard; and the wise Modern Girl is now as choosey about picking her husband as you think he should be about picking a wife.

That answers part of your question. I'll let the young men of 1933 answer the rest. How about it, Son?

'Second Choice' May Prove Real Helpmate, Says Fay King

I'M GOING TO SUCCEED IN LIFE
THEY WERE BOTH IN LOVE WITH OTHERS BUT FOUND HAPPINESS TOGETHER
POISE AND PERFECT UNDERSTANDING
FAY KING

By FAY KING

There are persons who, because they could not marry the ones they loved most, never married. But there are many more who were thus disappointed, and who married others. These marriages may not be the perfect bliss of real love match, but there is enough liking, respect and understanding to make them a lasting and pleasant companionship.

One of the most contented marriages I know of is that of a couple, each of whom was in love with one who was lost, but they have had a truly congenial home life together.

Some ambitious young men are actually more in love with their careers than with any woman, and wives will be happier with them than if they are not too much in love.

College Head Suggests That Girls Go Home

"Did you hear? Yes, I see you did. You are pale. But it's all right. I came to tell you. We didn't really hurt him. He's just furious at being unable to keep up his shamming. But—do you think you ought to witness this confronting of Owen with Brixton?"

"Oh, I mustn't miss it," I told Hugh earnestly.

"Then you shan't," indulgently. "We'll bring Owen in here as soon as Lillian and the rest come over."

"Will you tell me one thing first," I asked. "I can't understand how you came to be down on that field tonight just at the moment we needed you most. I thought the auto-gyro had left us, for some reason we couldn't understand."

"We had dropped messages to old Harry, telling him the general direction you had gone, and we knew he and his men were on the road, waiting for further directions. So, as Dick could run the boat better than I, he flew just outside the range of vision of those gangsters, set me down, and then took off again to guide Harry and the rest. I never saw anything like his handling of that boat. I believe he could land it on a tennis court and not disturb the net."

"Thank you, for—everything," I said, and with a stifled little sound, almost like a groan, he raised the hand to his lips.

HUSBAND ARRIVES

I wondered if I were mistaken, or was there a movement of the curtains behind which Lee Chow was ministering to Samuel Brixton? But there was no conjecture about the door into the hall. It had opened unmistakably, to frame Dicky in the doorway!

My heart missed a beat as I looked over Hugh's shoulder and saw Dicky in the doorway. From somewhere I pumped up courage and poise to say casually, "It's awfully sweet of you, Hugh, to tell me that about Dicky," and then I turned to my husband with a proud, wifely little laugh.

"Dicky, have your ears been burning?" I asked. "They should have been, for Hugh has been telling me how wonderfully you managed that auto-gyro tonight."

"He told only the truth," Dr. Barnes drawled, and I saw for the first time that he and Mrs. Barnes were with Dicky.

Mrs. Barnes came directly to me, with ready sympathy for my injury.

Then there was a bustle and there came a rush of feet, and Lillian came over to me and knelt by the couch, putting her arms around me.

GIRLS TO GO HOME

"Madge! Madge, darling! They've just told me how you saved my baby at the risk—oh, tell me; are you badly hurt?"

"Hush, dear!" I put my hands on either side of her face and kissed her. "I am perfectly all right; just a sprained ankle. And I see Mrs. Barnes is waiting to talk to you."

Mrs. Barnes, who had been warmly embracing Marion, put her hands out to Lillian in a gripping clasp.

"We must go back at once," she said. "I understand you have a prospective interview here, at which it would be highly injudicious for us to be present. We would prefer to know nothing of the outcome. Now about the girls?" She turned to her husband with a little gesture that submitted the question to him.

"I should suggest both girls return to their homes with you for two or three days," he said. "During that period have them write to their friends here, giving some plausible excuse, like illness, for their absence. We will leave that part to you. I understand from Mr. Graham that you have managed things so that there will be no unpleasant publicity?"

"You can bank everything you have there will be no publicity," Dicky said.

"Then we really must go," Dr. Barnes said, and went out of one door escorted by Dicky, as Harry, my father and Philip Veritzen came in from the room where Owen had been questioned.

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

Letters

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Will you please tell me how to word a thank-you letter to different people who have sent flowers, gifts and fruit to a person who has been sick in the hospital, or at home. I have so many to write for my daughter-in-law who has been sick for about six weeks. She is at home now, but will not be well for a long time.

I want these letters to be worded as they should be, so I come to you.

2—Also, how should a letter be written to a family who has lost someone in death? They have been our friends for many years.

F.

1—This would be the general type of letter to be written for these kindnesses:

Dear Mrs. Field:

Mary isn't quite well enough yet to write her notes of thanks, and so she has asked me to write to tell you what joy your kind thought brought to her, and what happiness came with the lovely flowers. The roses were so beautiful, and she enjoyed them tremendously. You were most kind and generous, and Mary and I thank you for your goodness. I hope that soon she will be able to see her friends, and then she can tell you personally her thanks and appreciation. Mary sends her dearest love to you.

Most sincerely yours,

2—In your letter express first your sorrow at the news, and then write some appreciative things about this friend, just as you would say them if you were talking with this family. What you say depends so entirely on the situation and relationship or degree of friendship that it is well nigh impossible to suggest just the things that you would write.

Wedding Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am going to a wedding very soon and I intend to wear a net dress that has a little green and pink flower in it. What color shoes should I wear? Would white shoes be all right? And what shade hose?

2—What kind and color hat should I wear?

3—How about gloves?

2—A white hat would be effective with this costume, especially this year when white hats of all kinds are so fashionable.

3—White gloves, too, would be the best.

Household Hints

Gravy can be made in an emergency, when no browning is obtainable, by adopting the following method: Before putting the joint into the oven, sprinkle the pan with flour and salt, adding dripping. Just before taking the joint out of the pan add a teacup of vegetable water. Leave for a few minutes, then take out the meat, pour off the fat, add a little more water and bring to a boil.

When making starch, if a small piece of lard is dissolved in it when hot the iron will not stick.

Pianos should be opened up and brushed out at the bottom, and the keys cleaned with the bellows.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

There Is No Medicine to Prevent Gallstones

A friend of mine recently had an operation for the removal of gallstones. During his convalescence he was told that 42 stones had been found. The patient was amazed and could not believe it possible. To convince him, the surgeon showed him the specimen jar containing the stones. Then and only then was my friend convinced of the truth of the story.

Dr. Copeland

Gallstones may vary in number from one to 50, or even more, in rare instances a hundred. When many gallstones are present they are usually small, smooth and round. When few are found they are likely to be large, rough and irregular in shape. The latter cause more pain and may cause frequent attacks of gallbladder colic.

Not all cases of gallstones are painful. The pain is caused when the stone moves, trying to leave the gallbladder. This sets up a muscle reflex, leading to severe pain over the lower borders of the right ribs. The pain may be referred to the right shoulder and back. It is often confused with rheumatic and neuralgic pain.

Sufferers from gallstones complain of indigestion, nausea, loss of appetite and constipation. The symptoms are more marked when the stones interfere with the passage of bile. When this happens the skin of the patient becomes yellow.

Normally the bile leaves the gallbladder and enters the first part of the small intestine. A stone may enter the bile duct and prevent the passage of bile. When this happens the bile overflows and is poured into the blood stream. This leads to "jaundice" or discoloration of the skin.

Neglect of gallstones leads to inflammation of the gallbladder. This is known medically as "cholecystitis." "Cholelithiasis" is the technical name for gallstones.

I am often asked whether gallstones can be cured by operation alone. This is the only method of getting rid of the offending substances. Do not be misled by statements concerning the value of certain patent medicines recommended for the cure of gallstones. They are not approved by the medical profession. As yet we have no medicine that will prevent gallstones, or dissolve them.

If you are a sufferer from gallstones and operation has been advised, do not delay. It is a dangerous affliction to neglect. In the hands of a competent surgeon, the operation is a simple one and need not be feared.

It will comfort you to know that millions of men and women have lived long and comfortable lives without knowing they had gallstones. It is only when they cause definite trouble that they need attention.

Answers to Health Queries

M. M. W. Q.—What causes a burning feeling in the stomach? 2—What causes a growling sound in the stomach at all times?

A.—This is probably due to acidity, caused by a faulty diet and poor elimination. 2—This is probably due to gas. Correct your diet.

M. K. Q.—What causes bad breath? 2—What do you advise for dandruff? 3—Is it bad for the health to eat too much candy?

A.—This may be due to diseased tonsils, decayed teeth, nasal catarrh, indigestion and constipation. Try to locate the cause and remove if possible. 2—Daily brushing, frequent shampooing and the use of a good tonic should prove helpful. 3—Excessive use of any food is harmful.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Obligatory Finesse

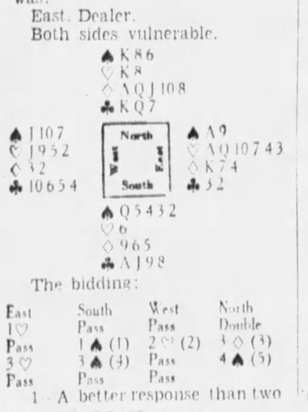
One method of play that is too little understood by Bridge players in general is the "obligatory finesse." This play—which, like so many others in Contract, was christened by the old "Whisters"—resembles the ordinary finesse in that it results, when successful, in the savings of a trick; it differs from its better-known relative in that it accomplishes its purpose by forcing an opponent to take a low-card trick with a high honor. Its success depends upon a correct count of the cards held by each opponent and usually also on a correct assumption concerning the location of the most important honor.

For instance, assume that there are five outstanding cards of a suit held by the opponents, including Ace-Knave-Ten. It is apparent that to lead once toward the King and play that card if the Ace is not played, and then lead a low one toward the other honor must result in the loss of two tricks in the suit in many cases. Using the obligatory finesse—that is, playing low from both hands regardless of what is played by the second player—will result in the loss of only one trick if the Ace is held unguarded by a low card by the other opponent.

An interesting example of this play occurred in a recent team-of-four match, in which one player, by executing it, won the match for his team. The hand was:

East, Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♡ | Pass | Pass | Double |
| Pass | 1 ♠ (1) | 2 ♡ (2) | 3 ◇ (3) |
| 3 ♡ | 3 ♠ (4) | Pass | 4 ♠ (5) |
| Pass | Pass | Pass | |

1—A better response than two spades, as North may have a strong escape suit of his own. If North can say nothing more, there probably is no game for North and South.

2—This would not be a sound secondary Raise in Rubber Bridge, but perhaps is justifiable in team-of-four play.

3—North now discloses his own strong suit.

4—In view of the fact that this is a free bid, it pictures a hand of more than minimum strength—in fact, about the strength actually held by South.

5—North realizes that there must be a play for game, and the risk of a set of 1 trick should always be taken for the game bonus.

The Opening lead was a heart, and South ruffed the second round. He decided that on the bidding East was marked with the Ace of spades. If he held only the Ace and one spade, the trump suit could be so manipulated as to limit the losses in that suit to one, and this was necessary for the fulfillment of the contract if the diamond finesse should fail. Therefore his first play, after ruffing the second heart, was to lead a low club from his own hand, winning in the Dummy with the King. Now a low spade was led, and East played the 9, South winning with the Queen. The chances of holding East and West to a single trump trick now rested entirely on the question of how many spades East had held originally. A low spade was led, and though West falsecarded with the Knave, the 8 was played from Dummy; East was forced to win with the Ace. While the Declarer later lost a trick to the King of diamonds, he was able to make his contract through an understanding of the principles of the obligatory finesse.

When Child Talks Too Much

By CONSTANCE CAMERON

A mother asks: "Why does my son talk so much? From the minute he gets home from school until he goes to sleep, he talks incessantly."

There may be a good many reasons, but the one that usually is the fundamental force that drives a child or an adult to talk all the time is a feeling of inferiority—a fear that the moment they stop talking people will forget they are there. After a while they forgot the cause, if indeed they ever consciously realized what it was, and incessant talking becomes purely a habit.

If I were the mother of a confirmed talker I should listen very earnestly to what he has to say. If it involved a project of any sort I would discuss it with him, plan for it and help him execute it. I would strive to make him feel that his thoughts and aspirations interested me to the point of helping him with them.

But if the conversation continued in a useless babble of small-talk, I should demand that the child be quiet until he had something interesting to say.

I should demand the right to talk, too, and demand that right also for guests or other members of the family. It can be made clear and justifiable to a child that it is only fair to listen, as well as to chime in.

I should try to make the child feel his importance when he was still so that the need to be constantly heard would be obviated.

I think you will find that the child who talks all the time is merely trying to hold the center of the stage permanently.

WHEN WE TELEPHONE

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Six suggestions for telephone politeness:

1.—Say "Hello"—not "Yes?" or "Who is this?"

2.—Announce yourself at once: "This is Mary," or "This is Mary Allen." Don't say the silly, "Guess who this is?"

3.—Ask the person if he or she is busy! "Is it convenient for you to speak with me now?"

4.—It is proper for the person called to say, "I am busy just this moment. May I call you back in 15 minutes?"

5.—It is gracious to thank the person who has called: "Thank you for calling!"

6.—At the end of a call say a "goodby." To leave without a closing word is like pushing a person out of your door.

"I am forty-seven years old. I have been suffering from terrible headaches and nervousness. All the time I felt weak and tired. I have taken a number of bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it surely is helping me. My nerves are better. I sleep well and feel well and strong."—Mrs. C. Richards, 870 Coney Island Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel better in every way. I took it as a tonic and builder. Now I sleep better, have a better appetite and more energy and strength. Your Pills for Constipation are fine, too."—Mrs. Lee Goodwin, 215 26th St., Columbus, Georgia.

EDUCATORS ON AIR -:- Ickes, Gov. Moore Addresses Listed -:- JULY 4 PROGRAMS

'Spirit of '76' Tops 'Fourth' Programs

Freedom from crime will be the keynote of radio's Independence Day headliner, "The Spirit of '76 Needed," over NBC-KDKA tomorrow at 3:15 p. m.

Presented under the auspices of the United States Flag Association, principal speakers will be Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, Senator Royal S. Copeland and Col. James A. Moss, founder and president-general of the association.

The musical portion of the program will be provided by the United States Marine Band.

* * *

With John Erskine, author and musician, as commentator, a graphic description of America's "Fourth" will be short-waved to England at 4 p. m. tomorrow to the tune of a military band directed by Harold Sanford. The NBC-red network, including WCAE, will carry the feature on this side.

Ickes Speaks

Another July 4 topnotcher will be a broadcast of ceremonies attending the dedication of the new Morristown (N. J.) National Historical Park on the site of Washington's winter army quarters in 1777, over WCAE at 2:30.

Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Gov. A. Harry Moore, of New Jersey, and Mayor Clyde Potts, of Morristown, are the speakers.

* * *

Other patriotic aerial highlights will be:

R. O. T. C. program, with Lieut. Col. Orville Johnson, executive secretary, and Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma; music by the Marine Band . . . KDKA at 12:30 p. m.

Address by Senator William H. King, of Utah, and a service band concert . . . WJAS at 9 p. m.

"The Black Soldier," a musical picture by the Eva Jessye Choir of the Negro's part in the country's wars from 1776 to 1918 . . . WCAE at 3:30 p. m.

Dramatization of incidents inspiring the composition of "Yankee Doodle," famous Revolutionary War song . . . WCAE at 11:15 a. m.

And and address to Jewish War Veterans by Samuel Untermeyer, New York attorney . . . KDKA at 4:45.

Foster Memorial

Outside the celebratory pale are addresses by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland, and Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee, and a special Stephen Collins Foster recital.

Gov. Ritchie, billed at 7:15 on KDKA, will discuss "The Crisis in Government Economy," and Senator McKellar, broadcasting under the auspices of the National Radio Forum, tells "What Uncle Sam is Doing for His People" via WCAE at 10:30 p. m.

"The Foster program, marking the one hundred and seventh anniversary of the noted Pittsburgh composer's birth, is a "Pittsburgh Spotlights" event—KDKA at 6:30—featuring Sarah Logan, contralto, and Cass Ward Whitney, bass.

Globe-Trotting

—By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN—

Hello ladies and gentlemen:

The sad experience of J. Collins and his brother-in-law, George Spenlinhauer, may serve as a warning to other devotees of the Highland Park pool.

Leaving their clothes in the car they returned from their swim to find the car door had been jimmied open. Their shoes, as well as other property, were taken.

They hold no brief for the thieves, but were thankful that their journey home wasn't made more embarrassing.

* * *

At Dr. Crandall's School in Library is Pennsylvania's competition to Texas four legged chick. The doctor hatched one recently with three legs, one having seven claws.

* * *

With the Allegheny County Volunteer Firemen's convention at Brackenridge over, the laddies are still talking about their hotly contested elections and some of the burned up voters are still reported as smoldering.

Henry Weihaden, of North Braddock, is the newly elected president.

* * *

* * *

Andrew Mehafkey, a carrier boy, who also hails from Brookline, has a collection of rare books and manuscripts on exhibition at the Brookline branch of the Carnegie Library.

Because the Sun-Telegraph will not publish tomorrow Louis L. Kaufman, Globe Trotter of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, will not go on the air.

He will resume his broadcasts Wednesday, with bulletins over WCAE, WJAS at 9:05 a. m., 12:15 p. m., 2:15 p. m. and 6:30 p. m.

N. E. A. Meeting in Chicago Takes Spotlight on NBC Network

Two broadcasts from the annual convention in Chicago of the National Education Association take today's ether spotlight.

A special NBC-WCAE transmission at 6 p. m. brings Gov. Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, and Dr. George F. Zook, newly appointed United States Commissioner of Education, to the air in discussions entitled, respectively, "A State Meets the Educational Needs of Its Children" and "Education—A Right We Will Maintain."

Oren E. Long, deputy superintendent of public instruction of Honolulu, is listed for a CBS-WJAS N. E. A. broadcast at 4 p. m., an entertainment feature of which is native music by a troupe of Hawaiian singers and instrumentalists.

The KDKA Musical Clock, daily morning variety hour of music and wit featuring correct time announcements every five minutes, returns today. The hour is 7 a. m.

Jimmie O'Donnell, Churchill Golf Club pro, opens a three-a-week golfing series via KDKA at 11:20 tonight. Discussing fine points in the essential phases of the game, O'Donnell is scheduled each Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the same hour.

* * *

"Hollywood on the Air," WCAE midnight revue, has Otto Brower, director, and Tudor Williams, baritone, as guests with William Gargan m. c.-ing.

Ella Graubart, well-known Pittsburgh attorney-at-law, is billed for tonight's "Our Local Government" guest spot . . . WWSW at 7:30.

Beginning on WCAE at 9 p. m., Harry Horlick's Gypsies will do their weekly melodic airings from their Century of Progress Exposition headquarters. They'll return to New York in October.

"Hot From Hollywood," the Abe Lyman-Irving Kaufman-WJAS show, goes on a two-a-week summer schedule tonight with plans to return to thrice-weekly airings in the fall. Meanwhile it will be billed Mondays and Wednesdays at 8:45.

Announcements in Welsh are plotted for an all-Welsh "Pittsburgh Spotlights" program on KDKA at 6:30, with Aneurin Bodycombe, KDKA music director, doing the honors. The vocalists are Bronwen James, soprano, and Dave Bodycombe, baritone.

SEIBEL RESUMES TALKS ON WCAE

George Seibel, Sun-Telegraph dramatic and literary critic, whose special network broadcast from Chicago Sunday replaced his usual "World of Books" period on WCAE, resumes his regular broadcasts from that station tomorrow night at 7 o'clock.

Irish Tenor Signs For Air Series

By AIRCASTER

John McCormack, the famous tenor, has signed for a radio series.

He becomes the principal figure in a schedule of broadcasts which will be of a full hour's duration, though it will be split into half hours because two products are involved.

During the latter period, Warden Lawes will preside over a feature, titled after his book, "Two Thousand Years In Sing Sing."

The series is slated to open October 11.

* * *

Harry Reser, the Eskimos' chieftain, who has been broadcasting weekly by way of NBC for six years without interruption, received the bad news yesterday that the broadcast is being cancelled July 17—and that there was no intimation of when and if it would return. His comment was:

"Huh! I thought when I took this job, it would be permanent!"

* * *

Hereafter, so I have been reliably informed, boxing contests of a major character will be broadcast from the ringsides, in the old manner, and second-hand descriptions of them by way of seated spies in the standii are out for all time. The networks will have mikes at the ring regardless of cost.

Why this sudden magnanimity?

Because, as I hear it, the Garden officials have served notice, and will take action against any futu attempts to obtain news as happened Thursday night. The chain headmen were shamefacedly blushing yesterday under the Garden's accusations, which in effect, went like this:

"Of all institutions, we never dreamed that big, respectable networks would bootleg descriptions of our fights when we announced we are opposed to broadcasting."

* * *

The return to New York microphones of Guy Lombardo, who opened the other night in Valley Stream, L. I., is usually the signal for a gathering of the radio clans, which becomes one of the season's spectacular affairs, but on this occasion, his home-coming was marked by even a more spectacular episode.

It seems that Lombardo is a sea hero by virtue of rescuing a disabled craft off Statue of Liberty, late Thursday night.

The head of the Lombardo tribe was cruising peacefully in his craft, through a muggy fog, when across the starboard gunwale floated a faint cry for help. Lombardo was just able to make out a small speedboat. He sent a lifeboat for the stranded occupants of the little craft.

And when they were hauled aboard the yacht, they turned out to be Jack Arthur and Louis Reid, of WOR. They had hit rough water, darkness, and a complete depletion of fuel, and had drifted helplessly for an hour in the path of liners.

HUBBELL'S FEAT COMPARES WITH BEST

IN THE RECORDS, Carl Hubbell will get credit for just a game won and a shutout. But a close-up of the senational 1-to-0 victory he pitched for the Giants yesterday against Tex Carleton and Jess Haines, of the Cardinals, makes it stand out as one of the greatest hurling performances of any period, not excepting even those hall-of-fame no-hit feats. To hold a club like the Cardinals scoreless for 18 innings, or two regulation games, with only six hits and not a base on balls, is a pitching achievement that compares with the best in history.

Carl Hubbell

Hubbell wasn't far from the records. Joe Oeschger, of the Braves, pitched the greatest number of shutout innings consecutively in one game, 21, in the 1-to-1 tie game of 26 innings against the Dodgers on May 1, 1920. Leon Cadore pitched 20 runless frames in the same battle. Tom Hughes held the Pirates scoreless through the first 20 innings of the 21-inning contest in which Erskine Mayer and Wilbur Cooper pitched to a 2-to-0 victory over the Braves in Boston on August 1, 1918.

The Giants and Cards did equal the longest games on record decided by 1-to-0 scores. Providence beat Detroit by that score in 18 innings in the National League on August 17, 1882, and Washington defeated Chicago by the same score at the same distance in the American League on May 15, 1918. The longest 1-to-0 major league game in Pittsburgh was a 17-inning duel in which Irving (Young Cy) Young and the Pirates defeated Jimmy Pastorious, South Side resident, and the Dodgers at Exposition Park on August 22, 1908.

A NOTABLE DAY for Giant pitching was completed when Bud Parmalee followed Hubbell to defeat the Cardinals 1 to 0 again in the second game of the Sunday double-header, giving the New Yorkers a total of 12 shutouts for the year, in which they lead both leagues. The Redbirds thus failed to score a run against Terry's hurlers in 27 innings in one afternoon.

Counting the last three innings of Saturday's game, the Cards were blanked by the New York moundsmen through 30 consecutive innings. The Cards scored only one run Saturday and one on Friday. With the final inning of Thursday's game counted in, they made only two runs off the Giant pitchers in 46 straight innings. The Cardinal pitching, too, was of a high order. Dizzy Dean pitched two full games in the series, allowed only one run, and the best he got was an even break.

WITH THE REDS and Braves turning in two additional shutout games to make it an unusual day in the National League, the Dodgers also did a little record-breaking of their own by winning both ends of a double-header for the first time this season.

Previously the Brooklyn club had played 11 dual bills this year without scoring a double victory. The Careys broke even in eight, twice lost both games, and once came out with a defeat and a tie. And until yesterday they lost the first game every time, regardless of what they did in the second.

THAT ALL-STAR GAME between National and American League teams at Comiskey Park in Chicago on Thursday is looked on by many critics as likely to shed some light on the question as to whether, as has been asserted, the Harridge circuit is using a livelier ball than the Heydler loop. The averages show that the American League, as a whole, with a mark of .270, is outhitting the National by nine points. The men picked to represent the

PRIMO WRITES OWN STORY OF CLIMB

"At last the championship is mine . . . and my pleasure in that alone makes up for whatever pain and trouble I met with on my exciting journey to the top."

So writes Primo Carnera, the new heavyweight champion of the world, in beginning his life story which gets under way Wednesday in the sports section of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

It is a story of a Five-Year Plan that landed a laughed-at circus freak in the very throne room of fistiana, written in his native Italian and translated, for the biggest man ever to hold the title of king of fistic kings speaks very little English.

It is just five years since Carnera saw his first boxing gloves and began to rise to fame.

Read the story of his eventful life—in 12 generous chapters—and you will have a better understanding of what it means to start from scratch and go on to the heights.

The story will appear exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph. Don't miss Wtdnesday's opening chapters.

U. S. GOLFERS CARD 71'S AT ST. ANDREWS

By LAURENCE MEIER,
International News Service.

ST. ANDREWS, SCOTLAND, July 3.—Two Americans, Horton Smith, the professional, and George T. Dunlap, Jr., the amateur, and Pat Nolan, Irish pro from Portmarnock, were tied for low score near the end of the first day of the British Open golf championship's qualifying round this afternoon, each shooting a 71, two strokes under par.

Thus, the invading Americans, who for nine straight years have carried home this title, were away to a flying start on the first 18 holes of the two-day qualifying round. More than that, they furnished most of the opposition to the leaders, Billy Burke, former American champion, having a 72, and Olin Dutra and Gene Sarazen, the champion, a pair of 73s. Joe Kirkwood, the Australian now living in America, also had a 73, and Walter Hagen, the old master, a 74.

CRAIG WOOD HAS 82

Of the American rounds completed, only four were below the accepted standard of American performances on this side of the water. The four delinquents were Johnny Farrell, Paul Runyan, each of whom had a 77; Ed Dudley, who had a 78, and Craig Wood, who had an 82. Wood and Runyan had more than a nominal excuse, at that. It was their first appearance at St. Andrews and no man, they say, can play the hallowed, old course for the first time without faltering.

DUNLAP IMPRESSIVE

Dunlap, followed by a good-sized gallery, played beautifully all the way over the tricky new course, hemmed with wilderness, gorse bushes and sand traps. The wind slackened and it was scorching hot in the sun, but George thrived on the playing condition. His card:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Out | 445 | 334 | 454 | —36 |
| In | 445 | 334 | 444 | —36—71 |

Horton Smith, with birdies on the sixth and eighth holes, reached the turn in 35, two under par, and was a stroke ahead of Dunlap at that point, but he needed a birdie 3 on the eighteenth, and got it, to equal Dunlap's score for the new course. His card:

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Out | 445 | 434 | 443 | —36 |
| In | 344 | 344 | 343 | —36—71 |

Lee Diegel, last of the American Ryder Cup players to complete the round, turned in a 75. Densmore Shute also had a 75.

The 71s equaled the competitive record for the new course, held jointly by Bobby Jones and Cyril Tolley.

Ross Somerville, Canadian holder of the American Amateur championship, had a 78. Archie Compston finished in 73, even par, for one of the best performances over the old course. He lost his chance to move out in front by

HUBBELL, FOXX IN BASEBALL SPOTLIGHT

LONG-DISTANCE HURLING, HOMER MARKS TIED

Associated Press.

Two already famous stars, Carl Hubbell, slender southpaw flinger of the New York Giants, and Jimmy Foxx, big clouter of the Philadelphia Athletics, had forced their way into the baseball headlines today.

Hubbell turned in the season's most remarkable pitching feat as he twirled 18 arduous innings, the longest game of the campaign and blanked the St. Louis Cardinals, 1 to 0 in the first half of a doubleheader that brought the Giants a clean sweep and a 5½-game lead over the Cards.

FOXX HITS FOUR

Foxx clouted two home runs in each game of a twin bill against the St. Louis Browns, bringing his total up to 24 but despite this record-equalling feat the A's got only an even break, winning the first 6-5 in 10 innings and taking an 11-6 trimming in the second game.

The four homers equaled the major league record for a doubleheader made by Earl Averill, of Cleveland, in 1930.

Hubbell's performance overshadowed the work of his teammate, Bud Parmelee, who blanked the Cards with four hits and fanned 13 in the second game, winning a second 1-0 decision when Johnny Vergez clouted a homer off Dizzy Dean in the fourth. Hubbell gave only six hits and no walks in the marathon opener. Tex Carleton put up great opposition for 16 frames but finally went out for a pinch hitter and Jess Haines gave up the winning run on two walks, a sacrifice, a force-out and Hughie Critz single.

The game equaled the major league record for the longest 1-0 contest and the 17 scoreless innings were only three short of another record.

DODGERS TAKE PAIR

Fine pitching feats marked most of the other National League games as the Brooklyn Dodgers took two games from the Chicago Cubs and the Boston Braves broke even with the Cincinnati Reds.

The Dodgers slugged their way to the first victory, winning, 7-3, with 16 hits, but Walter Beck's six-hit pitching was an important factor in their 4-3 second game triumph, decided when Al Lopez stole home in the ninth.

Dutch Brandt was reached for only four hits as the Braves defeated Cincinnati, 1-0, but Larry Benton came back with a three-hit performance and the Reds won the nightcap, 3-0. The Phillies and Pittsburgh had an open date.

The New York Yankees crept closer to the American League lead by beating Cleveland, 7-3, while Washington and Detroit were kept idle by rain. The result left New York only a half game behind the Senators and dropped the Indians into fifth place back of the Chicago White Sox, whose doubleheaders with Boston was rained out.

BOBBY JONES' GOLF

By BOBBY JONES

Only Golfer Who Has Won U. S. and British Amateur and Open Championships in the Same Year.

If I may be permitted to judge by the number of letters I have received which relate to it, the brassie shot is at least as troublesome as any the average golfer has to play. How to get it up, how to get distance, how to make it roll, how to make it stop, how to keep it straight, are some of the things which they all want to know.

After all, these are the things which we all want to know about every shot. If we could fulfill these requirements every time we should be ready for any of the big fellows. So we shall not set our aims upon any such dizzy heights. A good many of the inquiries can be answered, or the answer hinted at without going too far into the intricacies of the swing. I shall merely sketch an outline of some of the special difficulties which a brassie shot presents and try to suggest a way in which each can be overcome.

Bobby Jones

TWO OBJECTIVES

In general, when a golfer takes a brassie in his hand, he may have one of two main objectives in mind. He may either want maximum distance with only enough control to stay on the fairway, or on one side or the other of the fairway, or he may want to play a shot to a green where he will need a greater measure of control of both direction and roll.

In the first instance, in order to obtain the greatest length, he must strike the ball a swinging blow, much as he would off the tee, taking the ball squarely in the back. This kind of stroke reduces backspin to a minimum and produces the arching trajectory and generous roll which means distance. Obviously, this shot cannot be played unless the lie of the ball is such that the club, swung in this way, can still get to it.

For the controlled shot to the green, when it becomes desirable to limit the roll of the ball, or when playing from a very close lie, the stroke should be directed slightly downward; just enough so that it will take the ball first, and, passing on, skin the grass from the sod a little way in front of the ball. This stroke produces some backspin, not a vast amount to be sure, but enough to be very important.

AVOID LIFTING

Wood club shots from close fairway lies give so much trouble because the average golfer cannot overcome the inclination to try to hit the ball on the upstroke in order to life it into the air. With the ball lying closely on level ground, or even on a slight downslope, it is beyond me to understand how one can expect to strike the ball an ascending blow without first plowing through several inches of earth. But, nevertheless, we see it tried countless times every day. And one of two things always happens; either a scuffed shot when the club strikes the ground back of the ball, or a bad top if it misses the ground and hits the ball coming up. To have any success at all, this shot must be hit down, to apply a backspin which will cause the ball to rise.

One other important point is involved in keeping the shot straight when it has been blasted up from a tight lie. In most cases when the ball is hit down in order to get it up, a bad slice results, because the player has at the same time cut across it viciously. Closing the face will obviously do little good. The remedy, of course, even if it may be difficult to apply, is to hit straight through or even a bit toward the outside.

These are a few suggestions which are concerned more with what to do in various situations than with how to do them. Sometimes the use of the brassie presents as many difficulties and requires as much exactness of execution as can be found anywhere in the game. The man with the swing will always have an advantage with this club.

JACK OGDEN RELEASED

ROCHESTER, N. Y., July 3. (AP)—Jack Ogden, former pitcher for the St. Louis Browns and Washington Senators, was given his unconditional release today by the Rochester club of the International League.

BASEBALL COMEDY

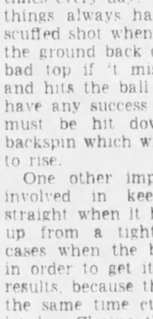
By NICK ALTROCK

EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, July 3.—I don't know what happened to Lon Warneke this season. I guess the Cubs would give a reward to find out, too. Last year the National League was just an oyster on the half shell and Warneke held it in the palm of his hand. But this year he is like the boy soprano that went to the choir loft once too often and let his voice crack. The boy soprano is just another chorus man now.



Nick Altrock

A year ago, Warneke only had to step into the box and the next nine innings were just a formality to see how much the other team would lose by. But this season Lonnie couldn't have been shelled any harder if he was the upper part of the Rheims Cathedral.

COCHET BEATS STOEFEN

WIMBLEDON, England, July 3. (AP)—Henri Cochet, attempting a comeback to regain his place at the top of the tennis world, today advanced to the semi-finals of the Wimbledon championships with a convincing four-set victory over the California giant, Lester Stoefen, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-1.

Jack Crawford, of Australia, continued his sensational advance by downing the redoubtable Gerald P. Hughes, of Britain, in straight sets, 6-1, 6-1, 7-5.

In the second round of the women's doubles, Mrs. Dorothy Andrus Burke, of the United States, and Miss M. A. Thomas defeated the Misses M. K. Phayre and O. L. Webb, of England, 6-2, 6-3.

The tri-color continued to wave high over Wimbledon as Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, veteran defending doubles titleholders, defeated the American students, Clayton Lee Burwell and David N. Jones, in the third round, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Helen Jacobs, the United States champion, and Don Turnbull, of Australia, advanced to the third round of mixed doubles, defeating A. Jacobsen and Miss Burgess-Smith, of England, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Ellsworth Vines, defending champion from the United States, won his quarter-final match from Roderich Menzel, giant Czechoslovakia, 6-2, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, thus qualifying to meet his old rival, Cochet in the semi-final round.

Semi-finalists in the lower half of the draw were determined when Jiro Sato, of Japan, qualified to meet Crawford by scoring a surprising upset over Henry (Bunny) Austin, British star, 7-5, 6-3, 2-6, 2-6, 6-2.

SLAPSIE MAXIE WOULD PANIC OUR HEAVIES

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Joe Banovic vs. George Maniey, 10 rounds, Kansas City, Mo.
Al Brown vs. Johnny King (for world bantamweight championship) and Jackie Brown vs. Young Perez, 12 rounds each, and Bobby Leitham vs. Dick Corbett, 10 rounds, Manchester, England.
Sammy Mandell vs. Johnny Hayes, 10 rounds, Ottawa.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

So it says in the papers that Mickey Walker, former welterweight and middleweight champion, washed up as a heavyweight contender, is going to get a crack at Maxie Rosenbloom's world light-heavyweight title in the Long Island City Bowl on July 20.

Which is an idea.

Did you ever stop to think of the havoc Smacksie Maxie Rosenbloom would create if they should turn him loose against what is left of the heavyweight field?

Wouldn't he be a riot in there with the ponderous Carnera, the shuffling Schmeling, the "don't-get-hurted" Sharkey, the larruping Baer, the impossible Levinsky, and the likes of those fellows?

REMEMBER HARRY GREB

Remember how our own Harry Greb used to smack around those big guys? And Maxie is the closest approach we've had to Greb since the latter passed away, not only in originality of fighting style, but even pretty much down to habits.

Consider what would happen if some promoter came up with the idea of a Rosenbloom vs. Carnera match, for example. Do you think the Primo's 261 pounds would scare the 175-pound Maxie? Which one of the pair do you think would hesitate to take the match? Certainly not Maxie, who doesn't care whom he fights and probably half of the time doesn't even bother to inquire about the other gent's name.

But what about Carnera? Can't you just see his board of directors going into a huddle to give the matter very deep thought, with the idea of making sure they aren't inveigled into signing anything?

WOULD BE FUNNY

All of which simply goes to show how the heavyweight class has gone to seed. Sharkey was the last of the men with class, and he has been an in-and-outer throughout his career and wound up setting his chin for a right uppercut that permitted him to bow his way out sniffing the resin against Carnera.

Schmeling has turned out disappointingly, Baer is just a big, good-natured guy who likes to fight and can punch, but isn't very long on the scientific points of the game, and Carnera just happens to be up there, despite the fact that last year he lost to Larry Gains, who has been held even by Don McCorkindale, who last Saturday night was defeated by Paulino Uzcudun, the Basque woodchopper with the crippled left arm, who was all through over here a couple of years ago.

Ho! For a Dempsey or a Tunney again—or even a Maxie Rosenbloom against what we have. That would be a lot of fun, anyway.

SHAKEUP LOOMS FOR PIRATE SLAB STAFF

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The spectre of a drastic shakeup hanging over them, the Pirates today were a rather solemn lot as they went through an intensive drill at Forbes Field. The date is open on their schedule due to the moving back of a contest which originally was set for today at Philadelphia. The Buccos will take on the Cardinals tomorrow morning and afternoon in the annual Independence Day doubleheader.

The showing of the Buccos on the Eastern trip ending Saturday was so poor that the officials of the club are close to the disgust border line. President Bill Benswanger makes no secret of his dissatisfaction over the performance of certain pitchers on the tour and unless there is a right-about face in the sharpshooting divisions stern action may be taken.

GIBSON NOT DISCOURAGED

It was not altogether the fact that the Pirates lost nine and won only seven on the big tour, rather it was the manner in which some of the defeats were sustained. Pitching of a distinctive bush-league order was responsible for several of the defeats. Apparently the hurlers taking part in the games mentioned dropped off the intelligence standards and it behooves them to get back onto a smart plane if the team is to stay in the pennant fight.

Manager George Gibson, in discussing the skidding Pirates today, saw brighter skies ahead. Gibson said:

"Don't get the idea that the Pirates are out of the flag fight, for they positively are not! There are times when everything a player tries goes wrong. Take the Critz home run off French that beat us in New York for an example. It might have appeared that Larry was careless and gave him a groove ball. The real truth is, French threw Hughey his most effective pitch—a screw ball. It was not even a good strike, the ball being close to his face. But Critz took a wild cut at the sphere and drove it into the short stands. You will see a change for the better in the club before many days have passed."

WHAT ABOUT THIS?

Gibson had no explanation for the terrific batting slump which has had the Waner brothers and Fred Lindstrom in its grip for many weeks. The spectacle of Paul Waner batting below .275 at this late period is something for which the manager cannot be called to account. And by the same token Gibson is not responsible for the falldown at the plate of Brother Lloyd and Lindstrom. It is a fact, however, that the outfield chosen to be the best in the league is just about the weakest.

Gibson has returned Tony Piet to the lineup in the hope of changing the fortunes of the club. Gibby hesitates to replace Comorosky with Lloyd Waner in view of Commy's pace.

Steve Swetonic and Bill Swift are likely to face the Redbirds in the dual bill tomorrow. Gibson stated he is so pleased with the Saturday performance of Hal Smith that Smith will go to the slab in his regular turn.

HALL WINS TITLE

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—J. Gilbert Hall, veteran South Orange (N. J.) tennis star, yesterday defeated Frank X. Shields, America's No. 5 ranking player, to win the eastern clay court championship in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-4.

Famous Flier Credits Success to McGraw

By JESS CARVER

It's Capt. Alford Joseph Williams, U. S. M. C. R., speaking, as famous an airman as ever rode the clouds. It's the same Capt. Williams who for eight consecutive years, count 'em, held the American speed record for airplanes. It's the same Williams who, before he won fame as an aviator, pitched baseball for the New York Giants, back in '16 and '17. It was while he was a member of the Giants, under the tutelage of John McGraw and the wing of the great Christy Mathewson, that Al Williams laid the groundwork for his astonishing success as a flier.

WORSHIPS McGRAW

Williams credits his success to the teachings of McGraw and Mathewson. It may sound strange, to connect baseball and aviation, but let the captain explain:

"There never was a leader, in my opinion, who could compare with John McGraw. I learned more about practical psychology and the handling of men from McGraw than I did in my days in college or in the Navy. McGraw and Admiral Moffet are men of a type. . . . splendid leaders, gifted with the keenest of insights and great psychologists."

"And Matty—there never was and never will be another like him. How do you think he became the great pitcher he was? A born pitcher you will say. Born nothing—he was born with many natural abilities, sure, but he perfected his marvelous control by constant practice. Even in the evening of his career, you'd find Matty out at the ball park of mornings, throwing, throwing, throwing, until he could zip a perfect strike across without even looking at the plate.

"It was from watching Matty and being instructed by him that I developed the patience for making 100 landings a day for five week in a row while preparing for my first cross-country flight. Five weeks, day in and day out, of taking a plane up, swinging around and landing again. Think that is easy? Well, try it."

Capt. Williams is a keen student of psychology. He majored in the subject at Fordham and carried on his researches while a law student at Georgetown. Best of all, he knows how to apply this intensive and extensive knowledge.

FIRST SOLO TOUGH

"Take solo as a broad term. Maybe it may mean one's first success in baseball, on the stage, in the law courts, as a football player, a boxer, a minister, a doctor. It's all the same. The first solo is the toughest thing a man comes up against. In aviation, there you are, alone in the skies, in control of vast mechanical power . . . but, don't forget this: You are alone. It's strictly up to you."

"The big thing is, after success comes, not to forget that first solo."

Capt. Williams holds the Distinguished Flying Cross. He is a prolific writer, corresponding for various weekly magazines and aeronautical journals. He has been admitted to the practice of law in New York state; originated the plan for the development of real property adjoining Mitchell Field, L. I., and in 1929 was one of the 12 men selected in the United States in recognition of services rendered to aeronautics.

Long's Sport Comment

American League in Thursday's game have outbatted those selected to represent the National by 18 points. But whether it's due to the ball, to better hitters in the American, or to better pitchers in the National, is a question on which baseball men do not agree. And it's doubtful if a single game will go very far toward settling it. If the pitching is right there won't be much hitting on either side, regardless of the ball.

Bill McKechnie, Jr.

WHILE BILL M'KECHNIE, JR., son of the manager of the Boston Braves, did not get to the plate often enough to demonstrate his batting ability when used in the late innings of several games on the Penn State varsity nine this year, baseball minds at State College consider him a pretty sure bet to become a regular next spring.

Coach Joe Bedenk this year had an experienced first baseman possessing hitting ability in addition, so McKechnie had little chance to displace the older player immediately. However, the Wilkinsburg lad was in long enough to prove himself a particularly good fielder and receiver of thrown balls, and with two more years of varsity competition ahead of him he is being generally picked to win a regular post in 1934. Young Bill also has been elected a junior manager of the Penn State boxing team for next season, with a chance to become varsity manager a year later and thus win a varsity letter in that sport also.

SOME EIGHT YEARS ago, Penn State had two sons of big leaguers on the freshman baseball team. They were Erwin Magee, son of Sherwood Magee, of the Phillies, and George Daubert, son of Jake Daubert, the old Dodger and Red first baseman.

Neither of those youngsters was around long enough to play on the varsity, however. Since that time, McKechnie is the first son of a big leaguer to enroll at Penn State. At present, Bill, Jr., is working out at first base daily with the Braves in Boston. He is receiving expert instructions from his dad, who pitches to him in batting practice, concentrating on the art of bunting.

THOUGH DEFEATED IN the Ryder Cup matches, American golf pros look as promising as they have looked annually for the British open, the 1933 edition of which will be run this week, with 286 entrants. The big event got under way today, with competition shifting from Southport in England, the scene of the Ryder Cup matches, to St. Andrews in Scotland. On the strength of their showing in the Ryder Cup singles, at least three of the American entrants for the British open—Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen and Craig Wood—must be given plenty of consideration, and Billy Burke's work in the foursomes indicates that he, too, has a chance. Some of the 10 other Americans entered, having had a little time to get settled in foreign play, also may be right up in the fighting when the 60 survivors start real competition after Wednesday, following the double elimination test.

THE YEAR'S BIG golf tournaments have seen some unusual happenings, but there have been others on the side. For instance, Ray Simpson, of South Bend, made a hole in one, but, far from getting credit for an ace, he took a count of seven on the hole. His first six drives went out of bounds.

And then there was Bob Swanson, an unemployed pro in California. Having nothing else to do, he set out recently and played 200 holes in one day. That meant a calculated distance of 41 miles covered. And, of course, that's not counting excursions into the rough.

TURF FOLLOWERS ARE awaiting with interest the American debut of Winooka, the latest Australian thoroughbred to invade this country, and said to be as good a race horse as was the ill-fated Phar Lap. Winooka, a 5-year-old son of Wind Bag-Kamooka, recently ran a mile in Australia in 1:35 1-5, under the crushing impost of 139 pounds, beating that country's previous record of 1:36, by Pavilion in 1930.

Edward Britt

That isn't much behind the fastest mile on record by a running horse, which is 1:32 4-5, set over a straight course at Brighton, England, by Kepplestone on June 25, 1925, impost 122 pounds, and equaled on the same course by Spionetta and Hermos in a dead heat on August 4, 1927.

THE FASTEST MILE ever run on the American turf was 1:34 2-5, by Equipoise, carrying 125 pounds over an elliptical course at Arlington Park, Chicago, on June 20, 1932. Winooka is to run in the Hawthorne Gold Cup at Chicago and other American races, and will be ridden by his Australian jockey, Edward Britt. The horse is training at the Marchbank Farm in California. Incidentally, Winooka must eat American bran or none at all. Having in mind the tragic fate of Phar Lap, Winooka's handlers planned to feed their charge with only Australian products, and five tons of hay and oats and one ton of bran arrived at San Francisco from down under on the liner Monterey. While pronouncing the hay and oats O. K., however, customs authorities turned thumbs down on the bran, explaining that bran is a wheat product and that its import is forbidden.

PITTSBURGH BUYER'S GUIDE AND BUSINESS REVIEW

MANAGED BOOM HAD BASIS IN SHORTAGES

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 3.—The entire domestic economic situation has been further stimulated by President Roosevelt's apparent determination to avoid any stabilization agreements which might tie the hands of the administration which has been adventuring with a "managed recovery."

Mr. Rukeyser

Yet the importance of this policy should not be exaggerated. The initial depreciation of the dollar served to prime the economic pump and to get business off a dead center.

Once the process of recovery was thus started, it tended to become self perpetuating. Momentum continues to be accelerated as consumer buying power is rehabilitated either through a relative rise in agricultural income or through the return of the unemployed in the cities to productive jobs.

Since vast social groups give employment to one another, the present trend tends to create a spiral of recovery. The net effect is to bring large economic groups into a balanced position, in which they can again trade with one another. Thus, goods and services flow through the economic system again in a normal manner.

The recovery, whatever its artificial stimuli may have been, was started on a bedrock of dynamic shortages. At the outset inventories everywhere were subnormal, and raw materials were quoted below the cost of production.

Only the fear of continued price declines was paralyzing business initiative. Once the price trend was reversed, the pent up mental and physical energy of the business men of the country was released.

Executives have further been heartened by the prospects for orderly progress, instead of chaotic economic warfare, under the liberating terms of the Industrial Recovery Act, which, on a basis which gives a fair return and decent standards to labor. To the large extent to which workingmen constitute the domestic consuming market, the improvement in wage standards augurs for a further broadening in the gross volume of business.

Automatic Tufter for Mattresses

BEDDING MAKER BUYING NEW MACHINERY

With the country on the road to prosperity and with new orders arriving every day, the Fort Pitt Bedding Company and the Sealy Mattress Company are preparing for increased production in their factory at Liverpool street and Preble avenue, North Side.

Consequently, they are installing many new machines. One of the most unique is the adjustable tufter, which when operated by two men, does the work of more than a half dozen. Instead of the old method of having several men forcing the tufts through the mattress one at a time, the machine forces them through simultaneously, leaving equal spacing between them.

The company is now marketing its airway mattress which it claims is unique in bedding history. On each side of the mattress are eight buttons with fine screens built through the centers. Through these screens, fresh air may circulate inside the mattress to kill the chance of odor and prevent mustiness. No dirt or dust can sift through so that the mattress is kept clean as well as ventilated.

NO COMPULSION IN HOME LOAN BOND TRADES

By GEORGE H. SNYDER
Business Editor.

The fact must be emphasized that in a case in which bonds of the Home Owners' Corporation are to be exchanged for defaulted mortgages, it will be necessary for the home owner to obtain the consent of the mortgage holder to the transaction. The mortgage holder cannot be forced to go along with the arrangement.

It is generally believed, however, that many mortgageholders will prefer to accept the bonds, which will be negotiable securities with assured interest, than to foreclose and run the risk of having their funds tied up in real estate for an indefinite period.

LOANS POSSIBLE

In some cases the act provides a means for relief when mortgage holders will not accept bonds. The corporation may lend money to pay off mortgages when the debt does not exceed 50 per cent of the value of the property. In such cases the interest which the home owner must pay will be 6 per cent instead of 5 per cent.

The value to be placed on property is to be reached by appraisals to be made by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation. This value in all probability will be at depression prices. In most cases it will be considerably lower than the prices paid for homes purchased in 1928 and 1929.

The number of cases where actual cash can be paid for mortgages may be limited by the fact that only 10 per cent of the corporation's resources will be in the form of cash.

The corporation is authorized to sell its bonds to obtain additional cash. Whether or not this is to be done will depend largely on the reception given to the bonds by investors and the price which they will command on the market.

In cases where properties are clear of mortgage indebtedness, but where unpaid taxes threaten their loans, it will be possible for the owners to obtain cash to pay taxes, assessments and similar liens.

AIRPORT FUNDS MAY BE ASKED

Additional funds amounting to $150,000 may be requested from the federal government by the Allegheny County Commissioners to make improvements at the Municipal Airport so that the local bombardment squadron can be moved there from Rodgers Field. The money will be used for the erection of hangars and for the installation of a gasoline system.

The county at present is negotiating with the Carnegie Steel Company for additional land along the north end of the field. With this and the changing of runways, the county will be able to obtain the highest possible rating for the port.

Col. J. E. Fickel, of the Army Air Corps Staff, Washington, has estimated the necessary hangars and gasoline system would cost $150,000.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 3.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Did you ever see real air races by the world's greatest fliers? They are breakfasting in New York and flying in here for lunch. Mussolini has a flier here who can stay upside down longer than the American delegation in London. There is the cutest little German war ace who cuts out his engine and does everything in the air with a dead engine, loops, spins, rolls, climbs, and then lands, all this with no more power that Congress had the last session. Our Army, Navy and Marine exhibition was real thrills. My wife whispered, "When I see that it makes me feel that all of our tax money hasn't been wasted." Avi- money hasn't been wasted." Aviation is just started. Yours,

Will Rogers

BREAD PRICES BOOSTED HERE

The 5-cent loaf of bread will be 6 cents, beginning today. The new price will be effective in the tri-state area.

The increase was attributed by bakers to the increase in production costs.

The 20-ounce loaf will continue to sell for 10 cents. A special 1½-pound loaf will be on the market for 12 cents, it was reported.

Army Could Dig For Gold, Navy For Sea Shells

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Congress could collect stamps, the Secret Service might go after Egyptian back collar buttons and the cabinet could improve each shining hour by knitting on little things.

We've got men busy on the roads, planting trees and landscaping Babylonian terraces, so why shouldn't we all do something to increase the national wealth?

By the way, what happened to the silver that was in millions of hip flasks? Did that go back into circulation?

BUSINESS

Rise Most Impressive In Industry's History

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

THE RISE IN business activity during the past three months has been the most impressive recovery ever made in a comparable period in this country. This declaration was made in the monthly bulletin on economic conditions published by the National City Bank of New York.

These increases in production and trade are generating purchasing power at an encouraging rate, the bulletin declares. From April to May there was an increase of 5 per cent in factory employment and an increase of 11 per cent in payrolls. More than 1,600,000 workers are estimated to have been re-employed since the end of March.

* * *

Farm Purchasing Power Improves

THE SURVEY FINDS that a better business equilibrium is being created due to agricultural improvement. The bank declares:

"The farmer is gaining not only because the prices of his products are better, but because they have advanced more than the prices of the things he buys. According to the latest price index numbers of the Bureau of Labor Statistics the farm products group was up 30 per cent from the low and the foods group 14 per cent, while all other groups combined were only 3 per cent. Between March and May the ratio of the prices the farmer receives to the prices he pays rose from 50 to 62 per cent of the pre-war average, according to the Department of Agriculture's calculations, and doubtless it has risen further since. The figure shows that there is still a long way to go,, but this is the most encouraging movement since the depression began toward establishing a more equitable price relationship that will restore trade between the farm and industrial populations."

* * *

Report Believes Recovery Natural

THE BANK FINDS no reason for alarm merely because prices have advanced rapidly. The report declares that the recovery was inevitable, and it is natural that it should be rapid in view of the abnormally depressed levels to which prices had fallen. From the autumn of 1931 the banking situation in this country exerted a destructive pressure on prices, and when the banking crisis brought the climax of this deflation, and the pressure eased, the rebound was natural. All economists have been of the opinion that prices would recover as business recovered, in view of the experience of past depressions and the abundant credit resources to support a higher price level, and this is what has occurred.

The survey expresses the opinion that it is a misinterpretation of the situation to assume that the depreciation of the dollar in the foreign exchanges has been principally responsible for the price advance. Sentimentally it has had an important influence, since it measures the expectation of inflation; but its direct effect is very limited. The change in the value of the dollar abroad effects its value at home only as the prices of imported and exported commodities are affected.

The bank declared:

"The Federal Reserve Board has made a study of the price of six staples important in international trade which shows that between February and the end of May they rose 30 per cent in British sterling quotations, and 60 per cent in this country. This rise in British prices, which has been independent of currency fluctuations inasmuch as the gold value of sterling showed little variation between the dates given, is evidence of the genuine basis for the improvement, derived from the low stocks of manufactured goods, reduced surpluses of raw materials, and improved demand."

Cotton Consumption Highest Since 1930

NEW YORK, July 3.—World consumption of all kinds of cotton in May reached the largest figure in any month since January, 1930, according to the New York Cotton Exchange Service. Spinners of the world in May used 2,212,000 bales of all growths of cotton, compared with 2,032,000 bales in April and 1,854,000 in May, 1932. For the 10 months ended May 31 the world consumed 20,401,000 bales of all kinds of cotton, as against 19,457,000 bales in the like period last season.

CITY TOURNEY DATES SET

Dates for the annual men's and women's city golf championship tournaments have been set by John Jay Burke. The men's event will get under way September 5, while the women's title event will get under way August 14. Both tourneys will be played over the Schenley Park municipal course.

Paul (Toots) Erath, Edgewood Country Club pro, toured the Edgewood course yesterday in 67 to set a new record for the links. He went out in 33 and came back in 34, despite the heavy downpour of rain.

Another local course mark was equaled when Fred Brand, Jr., former Penn State College star, tied the amateur mark at Allegheny with a 33-36—69. Dave Herron, former national amateur champion, set the mark three years ago.

City League Teams In Crucial Game

The champion Book and Ottie Cochran nines are booked to clash in the final scheduled game of the first half of the City League race this evening at Olympia Park. Books need a victory in this game to tie the Dormont club for the league leadership. A win for the Books will necessitate a playoff to decide the first half winner. If such a game is necessary, it will be played next Sunday afternoon at Greenlee Field.

DOLLAR FALLS TO NEW LOW

NEW YORK, July 3. (AP.)—Foreign currencies soared to new highs in terms of the American dollar today.

The British pound sterling, after opening 12½ cents higher at $4.46, lost part of its gain. French francs advanced nearly one-fifth cent to 5.19 cents. Dutch guilders jumped about 1½ cents to 52.75 cents and Swiss francs improved four-fifths cent to 25.50 cents.

LONDON, July 3. (INS.)—The American dollar fell sensationally on the London exchange today, opening at $4.42 to the pound sterling after closing Saturday at $4.31½.

At 11:10 a. m. the American dollar was quoted at $4.48 to the pound on the London exchange. At noon it was $4.46½. At the same time American banks quoted the dollar at $4.50. Gold went up 8½ pence to 123 shillings 1 penny per ounce.

The sudden fall of the dollar was the result of President Roosevelt's refusal to sign the currency declaration demanded by the World Economic Conference delegates of France and her gold standard allies.

MAY CAR SALES ABOVE 1932

DETROIT, July 3.—Sales of new passenger automobiles in the United States during May totaled 160,243, according to R. L. Polk & Co. The total was 20 per cent greater than the 131,282 total in May, 1932, and 34.5 per cent greater than the 119,909 total in April this year. May was the first month since October, 1929, in which sales exceeded those in the same month of the previous year.

Sales of new motor trucks in May totaled 20,925. The total was 11.9 per cent greater than the total of 18,696 in May, 1932, and 20.9 per cent ahead of the 17,301 total for April this year.

DETROIT, July 3.—(INS.)—All daily automobile sales marks for the Detroit area since the boom period of 1929 were shattered on June 30, W. D. Edenburn, manager of the Detroit Auto Dealers' Association, said today.

Registrations for Friday were 866 passenger cars, almost double the best previous day of the month and about three times the average daily figure.

Great Northern Financing O. K.'d

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP.)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today authorized the Great Northern Railway Company to issue up to $45,000,000 of general mortgage 6 per cent bonds to be used as collateral for loans.

The bonds already had been approved by the commission, but today's action permits them to be authenticated and delivered. Between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 of the bonds will be used to secure a loan of $6,000,000 from the Reconstruction Corporation, the reminder being held in the company's treasury for use as collateral for any further loans needed.

Atchison and C. & O. Carloadings Gain

CHICAGO, July 3.—Revenue cars handled by the Atchison Railway System during the week ended July 1 total 24,469 compared with 24,275 in the week preceding and 21,688 in the like week last year.

CLEVELAND, July 3.—Revenue freight cars handled by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway in the July week were 30,987, against 29,855 in the week preceding and 19,609 in the similar week in 1932.

STOCKS SPURT IN PRE-FOURTH CELEBRATION

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP.)—Financial markets touched off some pre-Fourth of July fireworks today in celebration of the presidential veto of immediate currency stabilization.

Stocks spurted 1 to 7 or more points in one of the most jubilant upswings of the present movement as the dollar slumped sharply in foreign exchange markets and grains leaped forward for gains of 1 to around 4 cents a bushel. Cotton got up about $2 a bale, before relaxing moderately, and various secondary bonds were in demand at substantial advances. Trading in shares was at a swift pace, the turnover in the early hours being at the rate of a 7,000,000-share day. The ticker tape was several minutes behind floor transactions during most of the session.

Rails and the so-called farming groups made the best showing, with Union Pacific up around 7, Case 6, Deere 4 and International Harvester and Sears-Roebuck 3 each. Columbian Carbon also got a lead of 6 points and Allied Chemical 5. Other gainers of 1 to around 3 included New York Central, Southern Pacific, Erie, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Caterpillar Tractor, Oliver, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, American Tobacco B, American Can, United States Industrial Alcohol, National Distillers, du Pont, National Steel, United States Steel and Westinghouse. There were numerous advances of fractions to around a point.

The Farm Company shares apparently responded not only to the strength of grains, but also to news that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had approved a loan of some $4,000,000 to exporters who have made a deal to sell cotton to Soviet Russia on liberal credit terms. Proponents of Russian trade and recognition point out that the Soviets, while they have refused to pay the old Czarist debts, have not defaulted on any of their own.

COTTON SOARS ON BUYING

NEW YORK, July 3.—Cotton futures opened firm, 35 to 43 points higher on active general buying, higher Liverpool cables and the sharp rise in foreign exchange. July, 10:50; October, 10.75; December, 10.94; January, 10.96; March, 11.13; May, 11.34.

The advance extended to 10.82 for October contracts during the early trading, with active months generally showing net gains of from 40 to 44 points. Continued absence of rain in the Southwest so far as shown by early reports may also have been a factor, but the advance met heavy realizing and prices reacted some 15 to 20 points from the best after the initial demand had been supplied. October sold off to 10.62 and was ruling around 10.70 at the end of the first half hour or about 30 points net higher.

Volume tapered off later in the morning but the market continued fairly active with prices reacting a few points under further realizing. At midday October was ruling around 10.66 or about 16 points from the best with the general market holding steady at net advances of 26 to 28 points on the more active positions.

LIVERPOOL, July 3.—Cotton, no receipts. Spot moderate business done; prices 3 points higher. Quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 7.20; good middling, 6.90; strict middling, 6.60; middling, 6.45, strict low middling, 6.30; low middling, 6.10; strict good ordinary, 5.90; good ordinary, 5.60. Futures closed steady July, 6.24; October, 6.25; December, 6.27; January, 6.28; March, 6.32; May, 6.35.

Bar Silver Higher, Copper Strengthens

NEW YORK, July 3.—Spot silver was quoted 3/8 cent higher today at 36 3/4 cents an ounce. There was no trading in silver futures on the Comodity Exchange, Inc., due to the observance of an extra holiday.

Copper has been sold in the domestic market at 8 1/4c a pound delivered to the end of October. This is an advance of 1/4c.

Soft Coal Output Continues Upward

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The Bureau of Mines estimates production of bituminous coal for the week ended June 24 at 6,000,000 tons compared with 5,674,000 tons in the previous week and 4,155,000 in the like week of 1932.

STEEL DEMAND EXPANDING

CLEVELAND, July 3.—(AP.)—Pig iron production for the week ending Saturday was at 54 per cent of capacity, a rise of 7 points since the first week of June, it was reported by the magazine Steel today.

Twenty-eight blast furnace stacks were lighted in June—the greatest gain for any month since October, 1932—making 89 active and lifting the daily rate of pig iron production to 42,500 gross tons. The magazine continued:

"This daily average was the highest since July, 1931, and gave June a total of 1,261,600 tons, compared with 892,326 tons in May and 626,015 tons last June. In no month since August, 1931, has so much pig iron been produced.

"Of this net gain of 28 in active stacks, making a total of 51 restored to service in the past three months, all but one were at steel works, supporting the rapid improvement in steel ingot activity from 47 per cent in the first week of June to 54 per cent last week.

"Market reports for all districts and all products note expanding demand in most cases, occasionally a stationary condition, but nowhere a decline. Due to the expiration of second quarter contracts Friday, specifications were issued against practically every pound remaining, this alone assuring a brisk first half of July and upsetting the seasonal trend."

Economic Problem Has Roots Deep in Human Psychology

—By LEWIS HANEY—

Professor of Economics New York University.

NEW YORK, July 3.—I find that some people do not understand why talk about the stabilization of currencies has a bearish effect upon the stock market.

The reason, however, is fairly simple. Stocks have been bid up largely because of the decline in the dollar. As long as further depreciation in the value of the dollar is anticipated, the buying of stocks will be stimulated—at least up to the point where the inflation becomes so excessive and dangerous that the final crash would be foreseen.

Accordingly, when it is proposed to stabilize the dollar, and thus prevent it from declining further, speculators consider that the chief reason for buying stocks is being taken away. Whenever the depreciation of our currency is stopped, many will stop buying stocks, and will hasten to take profits in the market.

A definite stabilization of the dollar would mean that its purchasing power would be fixed again. Depreciation would end. That would take the steam away from the inflationary move.

In fact, many are inclined to think that our position as to the balance of trade and holdings of gold is so strong that if the administration quits doing things to cut the purchasing power of the dollar, our money will snap back and recover at least a part of the ground lost. That would tend to produce a wave of selling in the stock market. It would reverse the process that has been going on.

AS THE dollar has fallen from par to less than 80 cents in gold, the active and farsighted people have been carrying on a great "hedging" operation. They have realized that if they are to keep the value of their capital and income unimpaired, they must do something to get more dollars in the future.

To do this a man must get rid of his dollars now, before they depreciate. He must "go short" of money. This he does by buying commodities or stocks, which will go up in price. Then when he sells out he hopes to get enough dollars to give him at least the same purchasing power he had originally.

If he starts with $1,000 and the dollar depreciates 20 per cent his purchasing power becomes only $800, or 80 cents on the dollar. But if he has bought 100 shares at 10 and the price goes up to 12, he can realize $1,200. This is a rise of 20 per cent in the number of dollars he has, and he is as well off as he was before.

BUT SOONER or later this depreciation of the dollar will be terminated. We have plenty of gold to keep the dollar at par, just as France has done with its franc.

The low at present suggests a maximum depreciation to 50 cents; and as 75 cents in gold is approached we note so much confusion in foreign exchange and wildness in the stock and commodity markets that we may well wonder if the limit of depreciation is not near.

Once the limit is reached, hedging against the dollar will cease, the "shorts" on the dollar will cover and prices will react. We always overdo things.

EAST REPORTS TRADE GAINS

NEW YORK, July 3.—(INS.)—Trade and industry enter the second half of the year with the trend toward recovery clearly established and indications pointing to further improvement in forthcoming weeks.

Reports from the New York and New England area stress the remarkable strides toward normalcy already achieved. In the New York metropolitan area wholesale and retail turnover continued of sizeable proportions, although reflecting some slight slackening from level of previous weeks.

A favorable item from the banking field is the sharp gain in deposits shown by New York banks since March 31, with the statement of the Chase National Bank showing an increase of more than $100,000,000 in deposits in the last three month interval.

The Dun & Bradstreet index of commodity prices rose 6.6 per cent in June over May, constituting the fourth consecutive monthly gain. Increases in wages continue to be reported from all fields.

BANKER RAPS F. R.'S 'DEAL'

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., July 3.—(INS.)—A caustic attack on President Roosevelt's banking and monetary policies was made by Edmund Platt, of New York, a former vice governor of the Federal Reserve Board, at the opening today of the seventh institute of public affairs conducted by the University of Virginia.

Platt declared in the opening address of a banking and monetary "round table" that "the monetary theorists are apparently in the saddle."

He took the administration to task for closing all the banks during the emergency current when the President assumed office. He also criticized the President for withdrawing gold from circulation and lambasted Congress for passing inflationary measures.

Defending J. P. Morgan & Co., and private bankers in general, Platt assailed the Senate for its investigation of New York financial houses. He attacked Ferdinand Pecora, special counsel in the investigation, as "a clever and somewhat notorious prosecuting attorney from New York who knows nothing of economics and whose purpose appeared to be to discredit all bankers and make things appear wrong that are not wrong."

Official—Pittsburgh 111

NO. 147.

AN ORDINANCE—Authorizing and directing the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, for and in behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, to enter into an agreement with the Board of Public Education relating to the widening and improvement of Hillsboro street, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue and to the opening and improvement of Hillsboro drive, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, and providing for the payment of the costs, damages and expenses thereof.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That the Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works, for and in behalf of the City of Pittsburgh, shall be and they are hereby authorized and directed to enter into an agreement with the Board of Public Education relating to the widening and improvement of Hillsboro street, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, and to the opening and improvement of Hillsboro drive, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, and providing for the payment of the costs, damages and expenses thereof, said agreement to be in the following form:

AGREEMENT

MADE THIS ..... day of ..... A. D. 1933, between the Board of Public Education of the School District of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, a municipal corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "Board," party of the first part, and the City of Pittsburgh, a municipal corporation of the State of Pennsylvania, hereinafter called the "City," party of the second part.

WHERAS the Board is the owner of the property on the northerly side of Hillsboro street, between Sheraden boulevard and Chartiers avenue, in the City of Pittsburgh, and

WHEREAS the City of Pittsburgh deems it advisable and necessary to widen Hillsboro street, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, and to open Hillsboro drive, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, and the corporate authorities of the City of Pittsburgh believe that it will greatly be to the interest and advantage of said City and a great saving of expense thereto if said widening and improvement of said Hillsboro street and said opening and improvement of Hillsboro drive be made with the approval of and under an agreement with the Board.

NOW, THEREFORE, THIS AGREEMENT WITNESSETH, That for the considerations hereinafter mentioned, the parties hereto do covenant and agree, to and with each other as follows:

FIRST: That Hillsboro street, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, shall be widened by taking for public street or highway purpose the following described property, belonging to the Board, to-wit:—

Beginning at the intersection of the westerly line of Sheraden boulevard and the present northerly line of Hillsboro street; thence extending along the present northerly line of Hillsboro street north 81 degrees 07 minutes west 106.02 feet to an angle in the same; thence continuing along the same north 60 degrees 49 minute west 10.71 feet to the intersection with the northerly line of Chartiers avenue; thence along the northerly line of Chartiers avenue 54 degrees 19 minute west 14.41 feet to a point of curve; thence southeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 60 feet, a central angle of 19 degrees 22 minute 30 seconds, and a chord bearing south 64 degrees 15 second east for an arc distance of 20.29 feet to a point; thence northeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 182 feet, a central angle of 56 degrees 13 minutes 00 seconds for an arc distance of 148.69 feet to a point of tangent on the westerly line of Sheraden boulevard; thence along the westerly line of Sheraden boulevard south 1 degree 14 minutes 30 seconds east 44.64 feet to an angle in the same; thence continuing along the same south 17 degrees 52 minutes west 116.53 feet to the place of beginning, containing 4,295 square feet.

SECOND: That Hillsboro drive, from Sheraden boulevard to Chartiers avenue, shall be opened by taking for public street or highway purposes the following described property, belong to the Board, to-wit:—

Beginning on the westerly line of Sheraden boulevard at a point of curve distant north 1 degree 15 minutes 30 seconds west 44.64 feet along the westerly line of Sheraden boulevard from the first angle therein north of Hillsboro street; thence extending southwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 120 feet and a central angle of 19 degrees 06 minutes 30 seconds for an arc distance of 40.02 feet to a point of tangent; thence by the tangent south 17 degrees 52 minutes west 30.6h feet to a point; thence southwestwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 182 feet, a central angle of 46 degrees 48 minutes 30 seconds, and a chord bearing south 62 degrees 15 minutes 25 seconds west, for an arc distance of 148.69 feet to a point; thence northwestwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 60.0 feet, a central angle of 19 degrees 22 minutes 30 seconds and a chord bearing north 64 degrees 15 seconds west, for an arc distance of 20.29 feet to a point of tangent on the northerly line of Chartiers avenue, said point of tangent being distant north 54 degrees 19 minutes 00 seconds west 14.41 feet along the northerly line of Chartiers avenue from the intersection of the present northerly line of Hillsboro street and the northerly line of Chartiers avenue, thence along the northerly line of Chartiers avenue by the tangent north 54 degrees 19 minutes 00 seconds west 30.40 feet to a point; thence southeastwardly and northeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 10.0 feet, a central angle of 90 degrees 00 minutes 00 seconds, and a chord bearing north 80 degrees 41 minutes 00 seconds east, for an arc distance of 15.71 feet to a point of tangent; thence by the tangent north 35 degrees 41 minutes 00 seconds east 10.60 feet to a point of curve; thence northeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 5.0 feet and a central angle of 56 degrees 13 minutes 00 seconds for an arc distance of 4.91 feet to a point of reverse curve, thence northeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 142.0 feet and a central angle of 67 degrees 21 minutes 15 seconds for an arc distance of 166.93 feet to a point of reverse curve, thence northeastwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the right with a radius of 5.0 feet and a central angle of 60 degrees 12 minutes 45 seconds for an arc distance of 5.69 feet to a point of tangent; thence by the tangent north 88 degrees 45 minutes 30 seconds east 13.52 feet to a point of curve; thence eastwardly and northwardly by the arc of a circle deflecting to the left with a radius of 10.0 feet and a central angle of 90 degrees 00 minutes 00 seconds for an arc distance of 15.71 feet to the place of beginning, containing 7,782.0 square feet.

THIRD: That said Hillsboro street, as widened, shall be re-graded, re-paved, re-curbed and otherwise improved and new sidewalks laid and necessary retaining walls built in conformity with the plans and specifications prepared by the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of said City and James Bonar, Superintendent of Buildings of the Board of Public Education of the City of Pittsburgh, to the limits shown on said plan.

FOURTH: That said Hillsboro drive, as opened, shall be graded, paved, curbed and otherwise improved and necessary retaining walls built in conformity with the plan and specifications prepared by the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh and approved by the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh and James Bonar, Superintendent of Buildings of the Board of Public Education of the City of Pittsburgh, to the limits shown on said plans.

FIFTH: The improvement of said Hillsboro street and Hillsboro drive as set forth in the first, second, third and fourth paragraphs under this agreement, shall be done under a contract or contracts awarded therefor by the City of Pittsburgh after approval of the plans by James Bonar, Superintendent of Buildings of the Board of Public Education of the City of Pittsburgh, pursuant to the Acts of Assembly relating to the same.

SIXTH: The city agrees to rough grade the remaining portion of the property of the board, formerly owned by M. M. Murphy and Crosier & Elicker, in a manner satisfactory to the board and as shown on the plans mentioned in paragraphs third and fourth hereof and to build and maintain the necessary retaining walls along the line of said Hillsboro drive, as opened.

SEVENTH: The city agrees to bear the entire cost and expense of the physical work incident to the widening and improvement of Hillsboro street and the opening and improvement of Hillsboro drive, as provided herein.

EIGHTH: The board agrees to execute and deliver to the City of Pittsburgh deeds of dedication for street purposes for the properties described in paragraphs first and second of this agreement.

NINTH: The city agrees to pay to the board the sum of sixty-six thousand eight hundred sixty-two and eighty hundredths ($66,862.80) Dollars, within one year after the date of the execution of this agreement together with interest thereon at the rate of six (6) per centum per annum; the principal sum being one-half the cost to the board of acquiring the said Mary M. Murphy property and the Crosier & Elicker properties above referred to, on which sum the city shall be entitled to the following credits:

a. The sum of nine thousand forty ($9,040.00) dollars, being the amount of damages awarded against the City of Pittsburgh on account of the vacation of a portion of Supreme way, as shown by the report of the Board of Viewers in connection with said vacation, confirmed by the court at No. 3821 January term 1932 Docket "A"; said vacation having been made by the city at the request and for the benefit of the board.

b. The sum of fifteen hundred ($1,500.00) dollars, being the estimated cost to the city of grading the property of the board as provided under paragraph sixth hereof.

TENTH: The city's share of the cost of acquiring the property for the opening of Hillsboro drive in the amount of thirty-seven thousand two hundred fifty-nine ($37,259) dollars shall be chargeable to and payable from Bond Fund No. 293, Street Bonds, 1928.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF the parties hereto have caused this agreement to be executed the date and year hereinbefore written.

In Suva again, it was thought that the sea might do Mrs. Alys good, and the captain got command of the Nuloa, taking his wife aboard with him. For a year and a half they cruised a route among the Pacific islands. She, the Unfortunate One, had often sat where and as I sat, facing this same man, her hands folded in the lap of her pretty frock, unconscious of his yearning for her. And I knew that I owed my own great experience aboard this ship to the fact that at times my feminine presence conjured up the illusion of her.

Eighteen months they spent aboard the Nuloa. Then Capt. Alys was transferred to one of the little cargo steamers out of Rabaul, and they moved to the Melanesian capital. He installed her in a "suite" in the European Hotel there. Some of the women in Rabaul took very kindly to the beautiful child-like woman; every one there knew—does know—her story. She seemed happy. Alys left and returned periodically, and kept her supplied with plenty of money, and lovely fabrics to fashion into for more frocks and pretty things than she could ever wear. He drank sometimes then, but never in her presence.

Presently he noticed that his eyesight was failing. An examination showed a cataract forming. So they returned once more to Sydney. He went to a hospital for an operation. One morning a friend, always watchful of Mrs. Alys in a neighboring apartment, observed that she did not make her usual appearance. The friend entered the apartment and found her lying dead across her bed, with a smile on her lips. Death apparently had caught her up swiftly in gentle arms.

Capt. Alys, lying with bandaged eyes, could not attend her funeral.

TOOK TO DRINK

Later he returned to Rabaul, and resumed command of the little trading vessel, plying between there and the Solomons. But his anchor was gone, and perhaps for oblivion, he began drinking hard. And when he was drunk he was an ornery, mannerless little brute. After a year of this every one lost patience with him except those who had a great sympathy for him because of his years of faithfulness to a childish wife.

Then the owners of the Nuloa brought it up from Suva to make our experimental trading cruise out to the atolls of the northern archipelago. Capt. Alys was the logical skipper for her.

I've seen Capt. Alys drunk, but never when he was navigating. Once, in fact, he nearly crowned me with a large metal flashlight that he carried, for no apparent reason. The mate's big form came between me and the skipper just in time. But when he sobered up, and after the mate had explained the enormity of his conduct toward the lady, I received a humble apology. For the first time the skipper called me by my Christian name. I told him to forget the unhappy incident, and congratulated him on not having a hospital case on his hands.

He said: "I don't know what makes me drink. When I first married Beth I did, and she made me promise to give it up. Now that she's gone I can't give it up."

THE MONSOON SEASON

Intermittent rain, presaged the coming monsoons. Sudden squalls, starting as a small bank of gray smoke on the horizon where all else was laughing and blue, and coming on as a column of straight rain toward us. Pelting of heavy drops on the water's smooth surface five yards from the dry deck, then a deluge for a few minutes, freshening the air for a little while. And suddenly again, as we moved on, we were in the unconcerned sunlight where no rain had been. The tattered canvas serving as awning on the poopdeck was slackened and creased into a funnel so that the precious rainwater might run into the opened top of the galvanized water tank beneath it. There were four of these big tanks. Plenty of fresh water for all of us, if it rained. It is odd-tasting water, particularly when it gets low and reddish in color. When we were fortunate enough to have moulis (limes) after a stop at a plantation, I asked Elisa the steward to squeeze the juice of one into my water glass to kill the "schooner" taste. But we didn't often have moulis, and then I drank the water as it was, praying that my typhoid inoculation would stand the strain.

All around us lay the thickly jungled islands of the Admiralty. Far off against the sky rose the dark outline of Manus ("Manus-true," say the kanaka). The atolls basked lazily in the sun. Occasionally recruits find their way out where we were then. Schooners in search of beche-de-mer, radiant gold-lip, or trocus shell, cast anchor for a night or so within a beautiful lazy lagoon. Once in a while a trader's ketch will stop to barter calico and trade tobacco for mother-of-pearl or sun-dried copra in the native villages that rim some of the islands.

Far off, along the coast of Manus-true, every six weeks the Marsina stops at Lorengau and then crosses the bay to Lumbrum and Mokareng to take on a load of copra and put off a handful of mail and periodicals. But the steamer only bides a few hours, and then like a disdainful lady, picks her way fastidiously among the coral reefs out to sea, going on then first to Rabaul and finally back to the splendors of Sydney. In the monsoon season the steamer is likely to miss Manus altogether. The sea thereabouts is not healthy during the northwest monsoons.

FIRST WOMAN VISITOR

Among these islands lies Pak. We were going there, for we carried some provisions and supplies for the young planter stationed on it. Otherwise there is no reason for anyone's going to Pak. For me it was the thrill of being the first white woman to visit the island. Not that this fact is of any import or significance to anyone except my queer self; visiting Pak was no great feat once I got headed in that direction, but the fact of priority remained, and I thrilled to the spirit of the pioneer.

The approach to the island is very beautiful. The water surrounding it on a sunny day shades from nile-green, where the coral rises close to the surface, to the jade of deeper water, and then to turquoise, where the sea-floor drops many fathoms further down. But you can see the sun playing in distorted dapples on the white sand bottom far below.

It was the middle of the afternoon when we reached Pak. As we dropped anchor a little pinnace came through the reefs to the harbor, sailed by the owner of the plantation. He was a friendly, cheery chap, very happy in the solitude of his island paradise.

All about us swarmed outrigger canoes, filled with natives who looked unusually savage. Only in the Admiralty Islands do the natives of Melanesia wear beadwork; on Pak they were literally loaded down with it.

FIERCE APPEARANCE

The natives there are splendid physically. The men in the welcoming outriggers were of a dark chocolate color, and their hair grew in a wild untrained bush, left in its natural fuzzy black state, uncolored, while stuck in each mop was a tall intricately carved and pigmented comb with teeth fully 10 inches long. This evidently was to scratch with, for in that heathen mop of wool no comb could serve any other purpose.

Most of the savages wore bone rings in their noses. Their appearance of fierceness was enhanced by the bristling dog-tooth and porpoise-tooth necklaces. But the features of these brown men were more genial, and their manner less suspicious and guarded, than their cousins of Manus-true, whom I had met months before. Only two of the men wore calico laplaps; probably this sophisticated couple had at some period been indentured to an outside plantation. The rest wore simply the bark-cloth breechclout of the islands. But they were all gorgeous with beads—broad armlets of beads about their elbows, belts of them around their waists, and wide anklets like shin protectors.

The first native to climb aboard was a chief—a most splendiferous creature. He was girded in a large black-and-yellow checkered laplap, and wore a wide bead neckband about his throat. Slung over one shoulder was a beautifully woven basket trailing fiber fringes halfway to the ground; this to carry such treasures as trade tobacco, an old and empty cigarette tin, and his kombung gourd filled with powderd lime to chew with betel. He was a very self-important luluai.

NATIVES CURIOUS

More kanakas gained the deck bearing baskets of oranges, bananas, papaws, and breadfruit for barter. They were consumed with curiosity. No such excitement as our coming had struck Pak since the new owner took over the plantation. Soon the mate raused them overboard into their outriggers, and the usual trio—skipper, engineer, and myself—climbed down the rope-ladder into the pinnace and glided over the reef to make a call.

The beach swarmed with bush-kanakas when we landed. There were many women among them, some with heads close-shaven, some with short corkscrew curls, all laden down with bead chains and decorated with the same strange bead anklets that I had first noticed on the men. On Pak the marys wore a kind of pulpul different from any I had yet seen. The grass was much coarser than the finely shredded pandanus fronds of the New Guinea mainland marys; and the garment consisted merely of two narrow, bushy panels of grass hung front and rear, tied with a cord around the waist. These pulpuls were awkwardly long, almost to the ankles.

PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN

SWING-IN-THE-CENTER PATTERN NO 404

By LAURA WHEELER

Swing-in-the-center, a popular old quilt pattern, is a simple and effective design that evolves into diagonal stripes across the quilt. The patches radiate from the center, a fact which reminded the old time quilt-maker of figures in the square dances so popular in her day.

Pattern No. 404 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for a pattern for this design to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Beware of a monotonous existence. Dragging through the daily duties, with no intervals for play or relaxation, will bring along evidences of age long before their time. It is very noble to live for one's family, but it is plain horse sense to live a bit for oneself. The family isn't so keen about mother when her nerves are ragged and she's close to a state of collapse. Ditch the household duties, go out with the girls, jig into the beauty shop, get a facial. The housekeeper's job is bound to prove tiresome now and then, don't fall a victim to it. And get your beautifying half hour every night even though the baby has a tantrum and the old man growls.

What's your method of face washing and wiping, Miss Beauty Quester? Be not scornful of this question, the wiping alone can be made a modified beauty treatment. It is because boys and girls are casual about renovating their phizes that some of them are cursed with blackheads and pimples. The subject is worth investigating. First, rinse the face with clear warm water to remove surface dust. Work up a good suds on the washcloth, scour thoroughly, but not so vigorously as to make the skin sensitive. If eruptions are present, rough treatment will spread the infection. Rinse with warm water to remove every particle of soap, rinse again with cold water. When dry use the palms of the hands.

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

Shake, fellows!

We're glad to see all those new members on the rolls of the Junior Patrol. We were just looking over some of your names the other day, and we thought it was time to put out the "welcome" mat here in the mail box.

All you have to do, fellows, is to keep your Junior Patrol promises, and help others. That's what the Junior Patrol is first of all—a swell bunch of boys and girls who are alert in finding ways to make this old world of ours a better place in which to live.

We hope all you older members will make any newcomers in the Patrol welcome in your neighborhood. If you don't know the fellows in your district who have joined lately, keep an eye on Uncle Quin Hall's comic strip right on this page for many new names.

Junior Patrol members are friends. Have you ever read the story of the Three Musketeers? If you haven't, you should read it. A French writer named Dumas wrote it, and every library has it. It is probably the finest story about friends ever written, and perhaps after you have read it, you will be a better friend than ever. Write and tell us how you liked it.

The hot weather makes us think about vacations. People everywhere are going to the seashore, mountains or on journeys.

But many people stay at home. Maybe your family is among them. There's a good chance to be a 100 per cent Junior Patrol member. See if you can't find ways to help people at home, and see, too, if you can't help your family to have a pleasant vacation at home.

If your family goes away, there's your chance to organize a vacation Junior Patrol. There are probably a lot of nice fellows, and girls, too, no matter where you go, and they will probably all be glad to join a fine bunch of friends like the Junior Patrol.

But whatever you do, write Junior or Uncle Quin and tell them all about it. Every Junior Patrol member is always glad to hear about the good times other members have, no matter where they are. If you go away for a vacation, too, you can take some wonderful pictures. Send them in to Junior with your name and address, and they may be published in this column!

Tomorrow, we're not forgetting, fellows, is Independence Day. We hope every member of the Junior Patrol knows why we celebrate. You should know the Fourth is our country's birthday, when our forefathers declared this country, then only 13 colonies, was free and independent.

That's why some people shoot firecrackers and make a lot of noise. The sensible fellow shows he loves his country in other more sensible ways. He goes to a picnic, or sees a parade, or the circus—he is happy because his country is still great and free, and having another wonderful birthday.

And speaking of birthdays, we have a letter from Anthony August, of Baden, Pa. Anthony tells us he will be eight years old August 10 and he likes our Junior Patrol radio program.

Believe it or not, Anthony says, a boy named August was born in August! That certainly is unusual. Any time any members of the Junior Patrol discovers something unusual they should write to Junior about it.

Wayne Garraux, of Bakerstown, Pa., sent in 27 pledges the other day, both boys and girls. Nice work, Wayne. Now please let us know soon, whether you are going to start a patrol.

The boys, for instance, could play mushball, and the girls could find many interesting things to do too. The first thing to do, when you get your buttons and membership cards, is to meet and elect a captain.

We have had many inquiries about Junior. While he is not seriously ill, the measles make a fellow pretty sick. But he will be well soon, the doctor thinks.

Watch for ways to help others. If one of your playmates is burned by fireworks, you should know how to give him first aid.

More Junior Patrol news on Wednesday.

OH, I KNOW ALL THAT BUT HE SETTLED OUT OF COURT AND WE AGREED NOT TO PROSECUTE
SETTLED OUT OF COURT? HOW CAN YOU SETTLE THIS CASE? - BECAUSE HE GAVE THE MONEY BACK DOESN'T MAKE HIM GUILTLESS - THAT MAKES THE EVIDENCE TO DEFRAUD MORE FLAGRANT - THAT'S AN ADMISSION OF GUILT
HE ONLY GOT $18 FROM ME AND I DON'T WANT TO SEND HIM TO JAIL FOR THAT I DONT KNOW ANYTHING ABOUT THE CASE.. ONLY KNOW HE'S CHARGED WITH OBTAINING MONEY UNDER FALSE PRETENSES - EITHER HE'S INNOCENT OR GUILTY AND A TRIAL WILL DETERMINE. THAT SO BE IN COURT WEDNESDAY UNLESS YOU WANT TO TRADE PLACES WITH THE DEFENDANT

No More Rain on This Umbrella

Now that everybody has graduated who is going to graduate, we would like to ask the diploma dodgers one snooty question.

What's this pacifist business that has been running through our academies like flame along a woolen string?

But never throw a tomato at a policeman until at such a time in the far future when it shall match his uniform.

You will get the worst of it. And don't forget that one ancient college prexy whacked the downy whiskers off a hundred immature pacifists on the C. C. N. Y. campus. He ran them so far he made them think the initials stood for a railroad.

All he had was an old fashioned muzzle loading umbrella. But he proved to be the Thor of the bumbershoots.

And it will be an eternal lesson to the softboiled students who picked on a junior patriarch before looking up his athletic record among the test tubes and the retorts.

The Tariff Truce

Our Secretary of State Is Still Influenced by Pernicious Obsession on the Subject.

The Industrial Recovery Act contained a wise and patriotic provision that no articles or materials should be acquired for public use unless manufactured, mined or produced in the United States, if available at a reasonable cost.

It would have passed without question, to the great benefit of the country and the satisfaction of all classes of our people but for the pernicious obsession on the subject of tariffs which still holds our muddled Secretary of State in its grip.

Addressing a letter to Senator Harrison, an administration leader in the Senate, Secretary Hull pointed out that this section of the Industrial Recovery Act would, in his opinion, conflict with the tariff truce: that it would be "a new initiative" in the field of international barriers, and "a highly inflammatory gesture" from an international point of view.

The tariff truce—which the United States fell for under the silly piping of our beclouded Secretary of State, has been to the other seven nations who signed it, nothing but a subject of mockery and merriment. It was nullified from the outset by the reservations insisted upon as the price of signature by every party to it except ourselves.

As a result of Secretary Hull's letter, the provision was stricken from the bill by a pliant Senate which must regret its action as it reads of the derision with which his tariff views have been received in the lobbies and unofficial gathering places of the World Economic Conference.

It is to be hoped that some day our Secretary of State will contrive to get at least one foot on the ground. He may then discern, behind the kindly references to his sincerity and good intentions, the fast diminishing respect for his penetration and good sense.

Perhaps the irony of so influential an English journal as the Manchester Guardian will some day get to him. Referring to the tariff truce as still allowing the British government to raise tariffs on many commodities without violating its terms, this newspaper proceeds:

"The happy formula of the tariff truce was 'new initiatives.' Under its shelter it still will be possible for the tariff-makers in all countries to keep their hand in while their ministers are declaiming at the London conference on the evils of tariffs and the desperate necessity of reducing them.

"In this country * * * the building up of a high British tariff will go on uninterrupted behind the facade of the truce.

"Nobody need be deterred from asking for more protection because of talk about the wickedness of tariffs at the conference, and those who were lucky enough to get their applications in may hope to see their reward even while the conference is sitting.

"We may fully expect that by way of showing their contempt for truce-makers, Chamberlain and Sir George May (of the Import Duties Advisory Committee) will arrange between them to celebrate the King's opening of the World Conference by a nice little batch of additions to the British tariff."

The time is fast approaching, if it is not already here, when the administration will have to relieve itself of the incubus of Secretary Hull.

His blindness and foolish opinionation have ceased to be entertaining even as a theme for jest.

They are a danger to the country and the alternative on the part of the public to getting rid of Secretary Hull may be getting rid of the Democratic party.

Traffic Deaths Drop

May Sets New Low Record for City; Inspection Believed Important Factor

Last Saturday marked the beginning of the second three-month compulsory automobile inspection period of the year. While there is some inconvenience and expense involved in complying with the inspection law, tangible results are being secured. Our highways are being made safer. Inspection has provided a valuable check on the driver who does not have sufficient regard for his own safety and that of others to keep his automobile in proper condition.

As a result of its 1932 record Pittsburgh secured the award as the "Safest City in America." This year there is a strong expectation that the previous record may be beaten.

There were only four traffic deaths in May in this city. This established a new low record for that month. The total for the first five months of the year also reach a new low. Fatal traffic accidents for the period were 31.7 per cent under the corresponding period of last year.

Hope for a further reduction in the number of deaths and serious injuries from motor car accidents can be found in the act recently signed by Gov. Pinchot requiring all new passenger motor vehicles sold after January 1, 1934 to be equipped with safety glass in windshields, doors, windows and other places where glass is used.

King Carol's New Role

Stern Parent.

King Carol of Rumania is not widely admired in this country, but if recent advices from Bucharest are true, even he has his points.

The story goes that he has formed a school for young Prince Michael, the other pupils being boys chosen from all ranks of the population.

It also appears that Michael has been running the school with a high hand and bullying some of the boys, who could not retaliate because he was "royalty."

When Carol discovered this he addressed the school as follows:

"There is one thing you fellows must understand. If any of you let Michael hit you without giving him a good hiding you can look for serious trouble with me."

Michael has since been exhibiting bruises and Carol has complimented the school.

The Harpies

(Copyright, 1933.)

The harpies in mythology were malignant creatures who snatched what they could get their talons into and despoiled what they could not carry off.

Such are our modern harpies—RACKETEERS. They swoop down on all classes, high and low; they infest every stratum of society, every section of the business world, levying their tribute, snatching what they can and wrecking the business OR THE LIFE of those who refuse their demands. Murder has become commonplace in their careers.

Racketeers exact a frightfully heavy toll yearly in this country—ONE THOUSAND MILLION DOLLARS has been estimated as the price society pays for their existence.

How long will racketeering continue?

You, CITIZEN, hold the answer.

WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

At this time of year, a personable, unattached man, who is kept busy trying to elude a lot of determined girls, almost envies a "poor, old married man," who has only one woman to dodge.

Once it was the trusting young girl who had to be warned against the big, bad, bold automobile flirt: but, nowadays, a sweet, unsophisticated man cannot be too careful with whom he permits himself to go motoring—or he may find himself being "taken for a ride."

From the numberless engagements announced by the June graduates, the co-educational Alma Mater appears to have taken the place of the old-fashioned matchmaking Mamma.

A thoroughly modernized husband is one who can work up a hearty appetite just by hearing the sound of a can-opener in the kitchen, as Father used to work up one by smelling the aroma of a broiling steak.

* * *

The quantity of love it takes for two people to be happily married depends a lot on its quality. It requires an inordinate amount of blind infatuation to be happy with an egotist, a human crab or a gay Bacchanalian; but if you are married to a reasonable, understanding, good-natured man or woman, you can get along quite cheerfully on a very small portion of mild affection.

* * *

When a man talks of "being good pals," what he's really looking for is a sort of denatured, non-intoxicating LOVE, guaranteed to stimulate him, but not to make him so dizzy that he'll stumble into anything serious.

"I pronounce you man and wife" is still the most impressive sentence to which a girl ever listens—but it no longer appears to be a "life sentence."

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 3.—Diary of a modern Pepys: A note from Eva Tanguay she has recovered of her blindness. And Roscoe Peacock writes he carried a wreath to Pere Lachaise to lay on Oscar Wilde's grave. Also I hear Lou Hauser, so long a figure about the Paris Ritz bar, is gravely stricken.

At my typing and through town, meeting Ben Troop and Ruby De Remer, living three years abroad, and then to Camille Dreyfuss' tea, a gay gathering with plenty of giddyap. So dropping in to see Alma Claybergh against her journeying to Vichy. And to Anne Kirkpatrick and Bill Hamilton's wedding.

To dinner with Hattie Belle Johnston and Mrs. Blanche Clark and the George Delacortes there and we watched pocket movies Hattie Belle filmed of Gandhi and his wife in India. Home, reading "Gay Girl" by my old city editor R. E. MacAlarney, and one might think him a rounder albeit sedately professional.

* * *

Speaking of gay girls, I witnessed a fluff of Broadway fellowship near 49th street last evening. Two ladies of the evening were on patrol. A well-barbered worldling in passing clipped out the side of his mouth: "Ixnay. Fly cops are trailing." They murmured thanks with no show of recognition, turned into an innocent tea room. And surely enough, two derbied gents with the unmistakable halo of Central Office, sauntered up, halted at the door dubiously, and went on.

Billy Gaxton, the light comedian who has had the longest theatrical run of the past three years, is in Europe, where he will invest a large slice of his enormous earnings in a perfume importing business. Gaxton, reared in the flinty ruff-scuff of Tad's old bailiwick south of the slot in San Francisco, is unashamedly fond of perfumes. He and a chemist friend have been for years experimenting with blends. He thinks he has something—"a perfume for men." And he's going to back his judgment manufacturing it.

All of a sudden Grace Moore seems away out front as the leading prima donna. I recall her first appearance in a musical comedy several years ago exploiting a fatigued imperial smile and little talent. One read of her singing here and there in Europe with no special furore. Then came her Metropolitan engagement and her appearance in an operetta which revealed a voice of surprising quality. And success.

Many debutantes are socially sobered by excursions into relief work among the unemployed. What they entered as somewhat a lark brought them vis-a-vis with the stark ugliness of the other side of the picture. Recently an actual descendant of a cog in the Lowell-to-Cabot-to-God machine told a magazine she is convinced the next generation will have no society or great fortunes.

* * *

Rich sons are also no longer unfurling the jib. All have taken in sail. Broadway hasn't a single millionaire playboy. The last of the guild was Phil Plant, once husband of Constance Bennett, and a globe trotter. Asthma, coupled ennui, eddied him around the color lamp in carpet slippers. His Sutton Place menage hasn't even a bar. The chief divertissement is backgammon.

* * *

But young Plant and other ex-stayouts will never feel completely out of the hurrah until some bright-eyed chirp peers into their cloisters with: "You all right, nonkie?"—meaning uncle. A friend's daughter did that to me the other evening. A fine high tiddledy highty.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

It may not happen tomorrow, or next week, but the time is close at hand when the Human Race is going to rise up, give you the once-over and ask, in rude and raucous tones—

"ARE YOU WORTH KEEPING?"

And if it decides you aren't, God help you—for your job here is THROUGH. And that's no maybe. It has happened before in human history, plenty!

Every so often the fellows who foot the bills, meaning the hard-sweating guys at the other end of the pick handle, get curious. They get wondering what it's all about. What's the sweat all for? Who's profiting by it? What are they like, these lilies-of-the-field who neither toil nor spin yet, somehow, manage to consume 95 per cent of the gross income? Are they worth it all—all the prodigious labor and sacrifice—all the frustrated and crippled lives they cost?

Every once in a while the Regular Crowd look the Lilies over and ask those highly uncomfortable questions.

And then they proceed to answer them by deciding that they AREN'T.

Yes, they admit, the Lilies look lovely and often sound wise. They make all the motions of being Important and Necessary and the Cream of Civilization. But, when it comes right down to brass tacks, most of them are just hangers-on—

NOT WORTH KEEPING.

So then, what?

So then—periodically, they don't keep 'em. And that's that.

Brutal? Perhaps. But life is brutal to those who fail to qualify. It isn't a matter of political parties. It's Nature, herself, getting busy, cleaning up on the parasites. They may get by with their racket for a little while, but sooner or later the day arrives.

And the day's about due again. In fact it has already arrived, although most of us don't realize it. This time it isn't a question of ignorant Russian or crazed French peasants rebelling against the tyranny of the aristocrats. This time it's a matter of one hundred and twenty million fairly well-fed, fairly well-informed, smart, spunky Americans against a scant million Lilies who've been hogging the hand-outs. And those American millions aren't just playing ring-around-a-rosy when they ask—

"ARE YOU WORTH KEEPING?"

Well, are you?

Yes, of course, you think you are. You can give no end of reasons, all satisfactory to you, why you should be kept. In fact, you're probably indignant that the question should even be raised.

But it IS being raised. A crowded, worried, hard-pressed world is wondering whether you, personally, are worth having around; whether you justify all the efforts and expense it takes to keep you going.

Consider that expense—in man power, in tax money. Highways for you to ride on. Forest reserves. Agricultural departments. Policemen, firemen, town, state and national officials, without number. Such a outlay for YOUR comfort, protection and convenience as the world has never seen. Are you worth it?

What have you done to justify all this service, outside of being your father's child or your husband's wife?

What do you give in return? What do you contribute, not just to your immediate family, but to society at large?

You sleep in a better bed, you eat better food, wear better clothes, have a better education than the ditch digger's wife. WHY?

Are you actually as useful a citizen as she is; as brave, or as generous, or as sensible?

Could you hang up as good a record if you both had to start from scratch?

SUPPOSE YOU WERE FACING A RUSSIAN OR FRENCH REVOLUTIONARY MOB WITH THE FIRING SQUAD OR GUILLOTINE WAITING YOUR ANSWER, COULD YOU GIVE ONE GOOD REASON WHY YOU SHOULD BE ALLOWED TO LIVE? COULD YOU NAME ONE ADEQUATE SERVICE WHICH YOU ARE RENDERING TO YOUR FELLOW MEN?

AND IF NOT—WHY SHOULD THEY KEEP YOU?

Think it over. You may have to answer that question sooner than you expect.

By EDWIN C. HILL

NOW and again one picks up a book that fires the blood, like skirling of bagpipes or fifes screaming through the ruffle of drums. It may be a book about a man or a woman or deeds of derring-do. But this book is about an ocean, the scarlet annals of an ocean whose savage sun has blazed upon many a brave heart and many a bloody deed.

The Indian Ocean—that distant sea which rolls from Africa to Australia and from Asia to Madagascar—the stage of heroes and rascals—the arena of golden courage and black villainy. It was the racecourse from Shanghai to London and from Canton to Boston of the fastest sailing ships with which man ever challenged time and storm—the fleet clippers which sped from China loaded down with fragrant tea. Every year the tea fleet raced home with the season's crop. First of the fleet to reach London River won the highest prices. Their names were better known than the names of the giant Cunarder and White Star steamships of this day.

The greatest race ever sailed by the old tea-fleet took place from Foochow to London in 1866. The whole of the fleet, long, lean clippers carrying vast clouds of sail, skippered by masters who feared neither man nor the devil, swept out almost together, each captain straining every rope and sail to get home first. As the days passed they drew apart, stringing out across the Indian Ocean, with the Taiping, Fiery Cross, Ariel and Taitsing in the lead. Racing up the Atlantic to the English Channel, first one, then another, of the white-winged beauties leaped ahead, until Ariel and Taiping made a dead heat of it with a passage of 91 days from China—an amazing race.

Ships Familiar to Every School Child

IT IS difficult now to realize the excitement and interest that was aroused by those annual tea races. During the 25 years between 1850 and 1875, clipper ship races excited more interest than the records made today by the Bremen or the Europa. Progress of the leading ships was telegraphed to London, as their white wings were sighted from coast-guard stations and points ashore.

The news was featured on the first pages of the newspapers. The names of the crack ships, Cutty Bark, Thermopylae, Shipdrift, Ariel, Sir Lancelot, Taiping, Lahloo, Norman Court, Fiery Cross and Leander, were familiar to every schoolboy and girl. The Illustrated London News used to feature full-page illustrations of these favorite ships in quaint Victorian woodcuts and engravings. The age of sail was not yet dead.

Famous clippers, American built, many of them, sailed between Europe and Australia, taking out immigrants and returning with gold and wool. The Marco Polo, Lightning, Donald McKay, James Baines, Loch Torridon, and Torrens. It was the captain of the James Baines who cracked out the famous vow: "Hell or Melbourne in 60 days." He made it in 68, a record passage. Returning, the James Baines carried a hundred thousand pounds of gold, including a nugget weighing 21 pounds.

Lightning, American built, was one of the most beautiful square-riggers that ever sailed the seas, and one of the fastest. She covered the greatest number of nautical miles ever covered in 24 hours by a ship under sail, 436.

Great Race Across Indian Ocean

BRITISHERS held that Cutty Bark and Thermopylae were the fastest sailing ships ever built. In one day's run on the Indian Ocean the Cutty Bark flew 363 nautical miles. In 1872 they raced home from Shanghai. For a week they remained within sight of each other, then were separated until the middle of July, when Thermopylae came up astern of her rival. Cutty Bark leaped ahead to a long lead, but ran into heavy seas which carried away her rudder. Six days she lay hove to, but in spite of all bad luck she drove into the English Channel only six days behind. Sailors were sailors in those blazing days on the Indian Ocean.

Monsoons and typhoons, cyclones and shipwrecks are part of the chronicle of the Indian Ocean. The monsoons are trade winds which blow for six months from one quarter of the firmament and for six months from the opposite quarter, as regularly as clock work. The changes of the monsoon periods bring on the terrific storm called typhoon—oriental brother of the cyclones and the hurricane. It is a vast cone of wind, spinning with incredible speed. It stirs up such a cauldron of a sea that often ships cannot live.

Well, the pirates are gone these hundred years. The grand old clipper ships are rotted hulks, or at the bottom of the sea. All the romance has gone out of the tea trade. But the typhoons remain. Not a mariner lives who doesn't fear these savage storms. In their shocking violence they remain today, as they were a thousand years ago, five thousand years ago, when the merchants came up to Tyre with their ivory, apes and peacocks, the raging symbol of that ancient Eastern sea.

'ALL WRONG' HERE!

By Winifred Black

Ju-Ju is going abroad.

No she isn't French. She's plain every day American, and her name is Julia really. But when she first tried to say Julia she said Ju-Ju, so that's what she's been called ever since.

Handsome girl, Ju-Ju. Good mind, too—in a kind of fierce, bitter, hateful, sarcastic sort of way.

But Ju-Ju hates America.

She has been asked to leave three or four of the best schools in the country and she says that's a sign the country is all wrong. Her mother says it's because Ju-Ju is so clever. She just can't bear stupid people and the stupid people resent that.

Ju-Ju's father says: "All Ju-Ju needs is half a dozen old-fashioned spankings," but he is an old-fashioned fellow and nobody listens to him.

Ju-Ju is going abroad to live.

She is going to a little university town in Germany where she can have some intellectual companionship. But she isn't going de luxe. She is going tourist—cabin rates, don't you know, that sort of thing.

She is tired of rich people and their throaty voices and their high and mighty ways. She's tired of the conventional world her mother lives in and she's going to build up her own world, she says.

Poor Ju-Ju, I really do wonder how it will all work out. Will she be quite happy living in a furnished room with a porcelain stove and the bathroom two flights down and the breakfast of coffee cake and coffee—she that had her own beautiful room and bath and her own little dressing room and whatever in all the wide world she wanted for breakfast?

Will she meet a lot of interesting people, socialists and Bohemians and such and have a grand time arguing from one morning to another? Sitting up all night and telling her friends what fools and tyrants their elders are?

Will she be quite the rage in the little college town or will the German students prefer the mild blue eyes of the German girls to Ju-Ju's flashing black ones?

Will she fall in love with some sidewalk revolutionist and make a "free union" and be poor and shabby and bitter-hearted as long as she lives?

Or will she settle down in some German village and be a regular "housefrau," kuchene, knitting and all?

Or will she wake up one morning and wish she were back home again, in all the bourgeois comfort of America, even if her mother is handsomer than she and more popular—?

What is life going to do to Ju-Ju and what, I ask you, is Ju-Ju going to do with life?
